

Part 21

Chapter 17

Today we would like to discuss a subject that is certain to raise more than a few eyebrows, namely that of the fierceness of the process you have coming up ahead. As we have already stated on numerous occasions, this will in many ways be a very bloody battle. Yes, we use this word deliberately, as the process of ridding you of your dark overlords will not be an easy one. Make no mistake, although the end result will be a place where you all can live in peaceful coexistence, the road towards attaining that goal is one paved with much drama and destruction. We have compared it to the birth of a child earlier, and for those of you who have gone through this process you are well aware that might be in some ways the most frightening experience you could ever live through. So to will this be, and we would be hiding the truth from you if we did not make this clear from the start.

The upheavals ahead will be many, and they will be of a magnitude no one has ever been through before, so we want you to have this one thought very clear in your heads: remember that in order for the darkness to be swept away once and for all, we need to do whatever it takes to make sure that this will be a successful operation. We are of the light, but in order for the light to finally be victorious here on this planet as well, we need to take out the big guns as it were. You cannot win this battle on love alone, and you must stay clear in your hearts about this. Love is a strong power indeed, but when it comes down to the dirty work perpetrated by these villains, we need to make it absolutely clear that the armament used against them must be of a very forceful nature indeed.

Many are not prepared to hear this, because they have already cleansed themselves of so much fear already, and therefore they are not prepared to see that same sentiment played out in all of it's strength around them. But this will be a period of much fear, and this in a way will make many, many of your fellow travellers lose hope once and for all. We will repeat this message again and again, as it is imperative that you keep this uppermost in your minds. We are here to make sure that darkness will have to leave your shores for the very last time, but in order to do just that, we will need to be ruthless in so many ways.

As we have stated again and again, this will not be some kind of harsh judgement meted out in punishment to the population at large, but a very forceful process with one object in mind, namely that of neutralizing the grip these dark overlords of yours have had for far too long. They will not let go willingly, therefore we will need to resort to force. Remember, we are all warriors of some kind or the other, and a large portion of us are the warriors in the very literal sense, namely the one not afraid of meeting a very powerful opponent face to face.

This will sound like the storyline from a very fancyful movie, but we would like you to know that the time for that final battle is approaching fast. Remember, we are fighting for your right to win back this planet of yours, and as such we will be mighty allies indeed. But you are the ones who will bear much of the burden in this battle, as you are the ones who will see your lives turned upside down in so many ways. Remember, there will not be much left of anything you take for granted today, as so much of your society is build upon the rotten foundation laid down by the dark forces. It has been constructed for one purpose, namely that of serving their will, and as such not much will be left when this battle is over.

And yes, we do repeat that it will be a battle indeed, but remember that you are on the winning side of this one. We know that this will seem to be somewhat hard to believe when you are in the middle of it, as there will be casualties on all sides. So much will come crashing down, it will be hard to see that it will be all for the best in the endt. But again, this will be a process happening on many planes at the same time, and as such your normal, linear concept of time must be forgotten once and for all. This battle is already fiercely waged, and the results are already in on many of the skirmishes.

As we said earlier, you yourselves are an important player in this game, and for many, there have been many battles already. We do not refer to the ones you may have experienced in your daily lives, even if they might have been many these last few years and months. Many have had a hard time going through all of the changes and challenges they have been forced to face lately, but that is only a small part of these battles we are referring to. No, we allude to the ones you are fighting whenever you got to sleep and leave this physical world of yours. You have by now started to have so many dreams that not only linger in your minds once you wake up, but who also have a very physical impact on your body. You will remember dramatic scenes, many of them very intense and scary, and at times your body feels very, very sore whenever you come out of your dreamstate. This is because there are so many of you who are regularly being flung into the thick of it, and your presence in these battles is a very concrete one indeed.

You are all warriors in some sense, and some of you are among the brave ones meeting up against the darkness each and every night. Do not think that this is something going on just in your dreams, nay they are in fact actual battles being fought in other realms, but they are indeed all connected to what is going on here on your planet on a daily, or rather nightly basis.

Many will have a hard time understanding just how involved they are in this already, as it seems so very remote from the world they are living in at the moment. But remember, these dark forces are not without knowledge that they are to be terminated as overlords on your planet, and they will not let go of their supremacy willingly. In other words, they have been fighting long and hard already in order to ensure that their dark kingdom will survive. But even if they have seen that they are in fact fighting a losing battle, they are not about to raise the white flag, and as such they will fight to the end. There have been many a skirmish already, and we think you all have been battle scarred in some ways by all of this nightly goings on.

Not all of you are involved in this, but a very, very large proportion of the lightbearers out there are very skillful warriors, and they have all volunteered to use their skills in a very different form during those hours when their physical bodies seem to be fast asleep. You are a mighty bunch for sure, and as we said it is indeed imperative that you use your skills in this way. You are a part of the winning team as we said, but again, this ain't over until the last one of you crosses that elusive finishing line and the new world can start to shine in all of its glory.

Many, many will lose their faith along the line, and they will let go of any hope of attaining that final goal. Therefore, we will remind you again and again that you must be prepared to face some very real challenges in the time ahead, and even if victory is assured, the number of members on the victorious team is by no means decided just yet. It all depends on how well you all fare in the weeks and months ahead, and even if we will do our utmost to assist you in any way we can, this is also your own private battle, so the stakes are very high indeed.

We say this not to scare you, but to remind you that although this is a fight for the light, darkness will in many cases envelop you and you will find it hard to see your way throughout the turmoil that will descend. Remember again that old saying that if you stay in your heart, all will be well, for as long as you never ever lose sight of that glimmer of hope always residing there, you will be able to find your way even when the darkness seems to be most profound. And it will be, as it always is just before the dawn finally arises. We hope you all will be here to see that beautiful new morning, and we will certainly support you in any way we can. But remember, you are not called the bravest of the brave for anything. You are indeed true warriors, and we all salute you as such.

The topic today should be of interest to many, as we would like to take some time explaining recent events. In these last few weeks, the magnitude of the earth directed blasts of energy from not only your friendly neighbour the sun but also from more distant places in your universe have heightened considerably. This is not a topic that will be unknown to the masses as there have been many messages covering this same subject already, but we would like to expound on this theme. As we have stated on previous occasions, these particles have one object in mind, namely that of changing the energy level on your planet in such a way that there will be no going back to your old state of existing.

As we have said, you need to be disconnected from the current energy grid you are being held hostage by, and now the time for this disconnection is coming ever closer. Many of you have already felt the heightened anticipation from this, and you have sensed that something major indeed is literally waiting on your doorstep. The reason for all of this, is the forementioned influx of energies that have been pouring into your atmosphere in a steady stream. Some of them originate from the sun, and we have already delved into what changes these portend both in your physical bodies but also in your physical surroundings. Neither will be left unchanged by this shower of highly charged particles, and as such you can say that this shower will certainly wash away all the vestiges of the old programming.

In addition to these so-called solar storms, you are also at the receiving end of quite another type of energetic particles streaming in from the outer recesses of your universe. You have mayhaps already heard about the so-called photon belt, a part of your galaxy containing a high number of high frequency particles. As you may well know, this part of your galaxy is in fact where you are currently residing, or to be more precise, you have just started to enter this belt. In other words, you are being bombarded with a new stream of information that you have not been into contact with for a very, very long period of time. Your little planet is orbiting in such a way that on a regular basis you are being sent through this highly charged part of your universe, almost like a car through a car wash. The effects will be much the same, as when you have successfully passed through this jetstream, you will have no traces of any of the old grime that is holding you back in so many ways.

This is in other words not the first time your planet receives this extra thorough cleansing, and so you can see contrary to what many out there think, this is not a portent of disaster. Far from it, but again, there are those who will be befallen by disaster during this washing cycle as well, namely those creatures of the dark who do not take lightly to this exposure to the fresh air.

There are many speculations as to what this photon belt really is, and we would like to give you some details. As we have stated earlier, you and everything else in the multiverse is covered by a vast grid comprised of energy and information, and as such you are never far from this unlimited source of everything that you will ever need. However, as your planet was disconnected from this grid a very long time ago, you have been depleted of so much of this vital energy in the interim. We use the word "vital" here very consciously, as this grid is a very vital and living entity that not only sends out but also receives back energy and information from everything that is connected to it. This is in other words a two way system, designed to make everything connected to it communicate in a very efficient manner.

As you have been disconnected from this grid for such a long time, there is so much information you need to be updated on. You can in many ways liken it to people who have been lost in the jungle for a very prolonged period of time, and when they come out again they are unable to function in the very modern and advanced society that have developed in the interim. You and your planet is in just this position, and in a way you will need a crash course, or an extra large influx of information and energy, in order for you to be able to catch up with the rest of us. This is were this so-called photon belt comes in. You can liken it to an extremely advanced library, where all of the intervening years of development have been stored during the long period since you last passed through this part of your elliptic journey. Now you have entered the doors of this library again, and you will be updated on all of the recent events as it were, so you will be able to interact with other and more advanced civilizations in a much better way than you are equipped to at the moment.

Much of this information will be downloaded into your systems without you even being aware of it, except for the fact that it might have a rather heavy impact on your physical bodies during the insertion. In other words, you might feel very, very worn-out and tired, and you will probably find yourselves taking a lot of extra rest during the most intense cycles of these upgrades. We hasten to add that these dosages are in no way detrimental to your body, but just as your computers need to be rebooted at intervals, so will you.

Remember, it will be as if you upgrade all of your software simultaneously, so do not go into fear if it feels like your body wants to "shut down" for a short period of time. Again, it is imperative that you listen to your body, as it will tell you very clearly just what it needs in order to assimilate all of this information in the best way. Treat it well, as it is working very, very hard at the moment in order to ensure that you have all the available information you need in order to proceed to the next step of this transition phase.

Remember, you have quite a way to go before you can cross that finishing line we have been alluding to so many times already, and it is indeed imperative that you stay alert to all the signals you get. Some of them will come from your own body, some will come by way of your intuition, and some will come from an external source, either one in a human body, or one with a very different origin altogether. We stress this because you are entering a time of intense activity, both of the celestial kind, but also a time packed full of dramatic events in the world you are living in.

The time for change has come, and now everything will start to pick up speed exponentially, as the energies come pouring into your world from literally all the corners of your surroundings. At times, it will seem to be more than overpowering, but if you manage to stay centered, you will fare well in these upcoming weeks. Yes, we know that this will sound as a rather old and tired advice by now, but is in fact the best advice we can give you.

As we have said on so many occasions, if you stop listening to the voices shouting out in fear both on the outside and inside your head, and just listen to that small, but strong voice that emanates from your heart, you will always make the right decision even when surrounded by seemingly total chaos and confusion. And in order for you to be better able to do this, we advise you to keep your eyes and ears open. This is always a good choice, but on this part of your journey it will be more important than ever.

As we said, you will get many messages, both from internal but also from external sources, and it is indeed imperative that you learn to discern information from disinformation. Not only will there be large amount of the former, but also the latter, as the forces of darkness will do their utmost to stop you from reaching your final destination. In other words, you will be inundated by fear from the fearmongers that will try to do anything in their power in order to make you lose all hope in that bright tomorrow. They are very adept at this, and they have played on the strings of fear for such a long time that they do not need to make out many chords before so many fall under the spell of their ominous melodies. On the other hand, for those of you who have cleansed away so much of their grime already, your ears have been so finely tuned they hear these melodies for just what they are, namely a false tune that will make your very soul cringe.

Your heart knows very well when something is out of tune, and as we said, if you listen to the voice of reason coming from your heart, you will not be led astray by these false prophets of doom. You will march to another tune completely, namely the freedom song. The march towards freedom will not be one without it's ups and downs, but it will be one of joy. And remember, you are never marching alone. In addition to all of your brethren marching alongside you, you have a whole host of benevolent beings from other sources helping you along your way. We are many, and we are more than eager to be of assistance. Just remember to keep your eyes and your ears open, and you will surely see this for yourself.

Again, it is imperative that you do not lose sight of the fact that although this march seems very, very solitary at times, you have so many comrades around you on all sides. Remember to reach out to each other as you continue your march towards freedom. That way, this ordeal will be over in a much shorter amount of time than if you try to go forwards all alone.

---

Part 23

Chapter 18

On the side-effects of the incoming energies.

As many of you have already ascertained, you are not left untouched by all of these seemingly endless sequences of energy upgradings. Many of you have already fallen under the spell of these, and in fact also gotten into your head that there must be something seriously wrong inside your own body. That is nothing unusual, as these energy bombs to call them that, certainly do not come unannounced. Many have had severe symptoms, even debilitating ones, so we would like to go into some details concerning these symptoms in the hope of setting your minds at rest. First of all, even if these injections of energy are at times very, very forceful indeed, they cannot harm your body in any way. Still, your physical body balks at all of these strange vibrations coming into the system from the outside, so it is not difficult to understand why it has to scream out in shock and pain at times.

We are aware that there are some who have already sought advice from professionals, i.e the medical society, but many of you have gotten very unclear answers as to just what is wrong with you. Endless tests have been performed, and at best the doctors say that they cannot find any fault, but it is not easy to put your mind at rest after such an answer when everything inside of you rebels in so many ways, and nothing of what you experience can be described as "normal". We use the marks here to imply that this is in fact as normal as it can get, at least for someone going through that life changing exposure to radiation as you are. As you are well aware, this radiation emanates not only from your sun, but also from sources much deeper in the galaxy, and as such your body has a hard time coping with it all.

We hasten to add that you must drop all of the negative connotation you usually get from the word radiation, as this is something else completely. No, this radiation is anything but dangerous, but as your physical body conceives of it as something very unusual indeed, it will sound off all of the alarm clocks it has to make sure that you are well aware of these incoming energies. A lot of these alarm clocks are already well known to you, so when you feel them ringing you get a little worried. Now this chorus is getting louder and louder, and these signals are indeed impossible to ignore. It is as if your whole system is getting ready to disintegrate completely, so it is easy to understand the panic some of you feel.

Remember what these influxes of energy do, is to literally rewrite your whole programming, in other words totally change the way your physical body works. And as long as the main object of your body is to try to stay in equilibrium, it is not strange that the alarm clocks go off. They do so in order to protect you, as it is not aware that the outcome of this process will be a very positive one for you. It is in other words just doing it's job, but you must learn to discern these signals from the real ones as it were. It cannot be easy to feel your way around in this confusion of physical symptoms, but as we have discussed already it is indeed imperative that you start to listen very, very closely to just what your body is telling you. It is in fact a very intelligent construction, and if you listen well, you will hear which alarm is worth taking notice of and which ones are the false ones. The latter will be in the majority, as there is so much confusion going on inside you at the moment. You are all literally being rewired from head to toe, so it is like one car alarm after the other going off along the whole street. Nothing will be left untouched, and as such there will be many symptoms to battle with. We will only mention a few.

Your sense of balance will be deeply affected, at times it will be literally impossible to stand upright without holding on to something. Many have likened it to be aboard a small boat on choppy water. This will be very annoying, but not dangerous in any way. However, combined with other symptoms such as blurred vision and headaches, it can seem like something very serious indeed is amiss in your brain.

Again, remember to listen closely to what your body is telling you. We think you will find that this is something that comes and goes at regular intervals, usually timed to the solar activity. In addition, it can be helpful to know that there are others out there experiencing the same things you do within the same time frame, so reaching out to others can be of value. Just remember to connect with likeminded people, otherwise you will be even more convinced that everything you feel is something to be worried about. Again, it is imperative that you do not go into fear, so sharing your journey with others out there will help you navigate safely through all of these changes.

Remember, you are travelling down a road no one in a physical body have ever travelled before, and as such you cannot know beforehand just what this will feel like. We cannot tell you either, as this is something we ourselves have not experienced. However, we can tell you that even if this process feels very, very uncomfortable at times, it is by no means dangerous to you or to your physical body. As we have said on numerous occasions, you are all closely monitored by us, and as such nothing harmful will befall you.

Back to the sense of unbalance and blurred vision. As you might be aware of, much of the rewiring we referred to goes on inside of your brain. That is why there are so many symptoms closely linked to all of your senses. Just think of how your body reacts when you go out on a boat in high seas. It will certainly start to tell you that there is something amiss, as everything that have been stable suddenly starts to move very unpredictably. You will feel nauseous and have a hard time keeping yourself steady, much like the way you feel when these energywaves starts to roll in. And so your body starts to do everything it can to readjust to these new sets of rules, and when you finally get your sea legs as it were, you go back on dry land again. Then your body starts to rebel yet again, because it has just accustomed itself to function in a very unstable environment.

In other words, you will feel these periods of unbalance and motion sickness to call it that both during these downloads but also after them, as your body always does everything it can to compensate for the new parameters. It can in other words feel very unsettled for prolonged periods of time, but you will find a way to stay upright throughout these storms as long as you take them for what they are, namely a minor inconvenience for achieving something very strong and stable indeed. This will not go on for ever of course, and you will find that your body gets better and better at adapting to these energyshifts as the time goes by, but as these energywaves literally change pattern from one wave to the next, there will always be some sort of reaction whenever a new one comes in. Just remember that you are literally surfing these waves in order to get to a very new shore, so we think you will in some way be more able to enjoy the ride if you keep this in mind whenever you feel you are starting to slip under the surface of another incoming crest.

Your digestive tract is also having a hard time coping with all of this activity. It will work overtime to ensure that all the waste from this rewiring process can be successfully eliminated, and this is not a very pleasant experience at times. We will remind you that this is in fact a very natural part of your body's way of handling stress, as stress is what it considers this to be. In other words, when your system senses that something is amiss, and that something new and unknown has entered, it does everything it can to get rid of it. Think of it as a very thorough cleansing process, for this is in effect just what it is. The new energy coming in takes over from the old one, and together with the waste produced from this process, it will be eliminated as your body no longer has any need for it.

This will be a rather unsavoury subject for many, but we mention it because you will all feel the impact from this in some way, and because whenever your body reacts in any way that seems to confirm that something is indeed amiss, it is important to remember that although it might feel rather unpleasant, it will do you all sorts of good in this upcoming period. The lighter the load, the easier the travel to put it in not too blunt words.

Over to the other function of your digestive track, namely the important part of nutrition. You have all had your ears filled up with advice on just what kind of diet is considered the best, or most balanced one. You have probably realized for yourselves just how impossible it is to keep up to this regime under the current circumstances. Your body will be sending you very strong signals, not only when to eat, but also what to eat, and at times this will certainly fly in the face of conventional wisdom.

Remember you are all under considerable stress, in other words this process is taking its toll on your body, and even if it cannot be described as harmful, you need to be extra vigilant in order to help your body through this in any way you can. One of the ways is to ensure that it is fed the things it needs in order for it to assimilate all of these changes in the best possible way. And remember, you will get some very confusing messages indeed, messages that will tell you very clearly to eat things that might not even be on your list of required foodstuffs, and that might be even considered as detrimental. You will in other words at times literally crave things that contain a high amount of calories or proteins, even things considered to be "bad" for your body. That is because this intense process requires high-octane fuel to call it that, and so we advise you to pay heed whenever your body tells you that it wants something.

On the other hand, there will also be periods when you lose the urge to eat anything at all, as your body will need rest from digesting anything altogether. To many, this will be self evident, but we mention it because your society has put so much emphasis on the food that you may or may not eat. Remember you are travelling in uncharted terrain, and as such all the old rules of navigation must be discarded once and for all. Trust your body, it will tell you what to do, but remember to listen very carefully so you do not take any false alarm at face value.

---

Part 24

Equinox message

And so we continue. Today is a very special day, so we would like to give you all a very special message. Today is the day when the world hangs in the balance as it were, in other words, this is the day of the equinox. This marks the beginning of a very special time for your little planet, and we think it will be one you will look back on with awe. Indeed, much will be changing for you all now, and when you approach the next equinox, we think you will find that you are in fact so changed by recent events you will have a hard time remembering just what your lives were before today. We do not imply that today is THE day, rather that today marks the completion of a significant initialization for you all, and also the entering of the next and critical phase in your ascension process.

We are aware that there are many, many out there getting tired of receiving these messages time after time, and that they are in fact giving up hope that anything will indeed change for the better anytime soon. That is very understandable, as there is seemingly an endless stream of bad news paraded in front of your eyes every time you take a look at what the mass media is dishing up for you on a daily basis. Just remember– this is pure manipulation, information given out in order to make you all fall back and resign yourselves to a fate as continued slaves, in other words, giving up your powers again to those that have held you back for countless of generations.

We do not say that this world is not full of negative events, but that it has been made almost impossible for you all to see behind the veils as it were and get a glimpse of the REAL news. There is so much going on behind this veil, things that would make your hearts sing out in joy if you were aware of them. Some of you are among the lucky few who have gotten a sneak preview of this already, and we are so glad to see how your whole demeanor changes when you realize that the light has already penetrated even into the furthest recesses of the dark abodes. We are indeed smoking them all out of their hidey- holes, but they do put on a mighty spectacle in order to ensure that you are all still blinded by their dark presence. So what we want to implore you all, is to go back into the corner of your hearts were your own light is shining at it's brightest. It will always continue to do so, even on the darkest of days, and as you are now approaching those really, really dark days, we find it prudent to remind you that although the sun will be sliding away from you all in the northern hemisphere, remember that the light is indeed increasing by the minute.

So much will happen in the space of a very short time, and much of it will go down in the darkest hours of your winter. This will indeed be a harsh season for you all, no matter where on the planet you reside, but remember it is as with mother nature. You all need to go through this cycle of breakdown in order to be reborn a new in the spring. Just remember to hold on to the light and not let yourself be swallowed up by the approaching darkness, it is but a veil cloacking the brightness of tomorrow. And you must also hold on to the truth that even if the surface is churned up into a frenzy, remember that it is indeed down underneath where calmness resides, and where the big changes are made.

You have been well groomed to only let your eyes rest on the turmoil on the surface, and in this upcoming period there will be much turmoil indeed, but rest assured that underneath the surface the light has taken over the command. In other words, do not let yourselves drown in the fear. If you let go of the fear dragging you down, the light will buoy you up and you will bob along on the surface. There will be much flotsam bumping you about, but you will indeed find firm ground beneath your feet sooner than you think.

Again, do not take everything at it's face value because the ones grading the value are the ones who have corrupted the whole set of scales. You will feel in your hearts what the real value of these upcoming events will be, and you will know so well that this darkest period will herald the advent of the light. And this time the light will come to stay for good.

---

Part 25

Chapter 19

Today's missive will not be as long as usual, as we would like to give some details on some of the upcoming attractions as it were. In order to do this, we would like to focus on one of the details at a time. This is in order to give you some sense of the magnitude of what is about to happen. This will not be easy to digest, but we will make sure that we give it to you in increments that will be more easily translated into words. In other words, the energies contained in these missives will be massive indeed, but in form they will seem to be very short, almost naive. Here we go.

The first part of this journey will seem to be one carried out almost entirely in the dark. In other words, it will be accompanied by an almost total lack of daylight of any kind, and this will indeed cover the entire globe at the same time. Not much can be said about this period, as it will in many ways obliterate all and everything that you can feel, hear or see with all of your so-called normal senses. It will almost be like being blind and deaf, almost like you are in a state of near death, but still able to sense that you are alive. All of your bodily functions will slow down, like a bear going into hibernation, so you will be able to survive for quite a long time without ever needing to take in any form of nutrition. In other words, you will be in a suspended animation where you are all dislocated from the timeline you are currently being held hostage in, before you will be relocated to a totally new timeline.

You will in many ways feel like you are floating in space, like an embryo suspended in the womb, waiting for the birth. And this is in fact just what you all are, you are getting ready to be reborn, free of all of the shackles of yesteryear. You will be free from everything that has been holding you hostage, not only the dark forces on the outside, but also the tyranny that has been holding you back on the inside. We refer of course to that ever present fear you are all harboring somewhere in your systems. No matter what shape or form it takes, it has always and forever held you tightly confined within its grip, but now we will help you make sure that it will for ever have to let go.

You will be floating in this state of metamorphosis for quite a while, but you will not be able to count the time as all time will be suspended. You are in other words being transported to a place beyond time, where no time exists, and when the time is right, you will be brought back. In other words, when you can be successfully reconnected to the living grid of information and energy whence you once came from, you will be taken out of hibernation and gently woken again. Then you will finally open your eyes to see the light of a brand new day, and a brand new world.

Take this as you wish, but know that the future will be a bright one indeed. Just do not expect the present world to go on forever. You will have a choice, either to stay in the fear-generated world of sorrow and broken dreams, or choose to separate yourself from this world and let go of any inhibitions. Then, you can enter this womblike state and let us take you through the darkness and into the new light. Just remember that the period of free falling is rapidly approaching, so you must prepare yourself to take the plunge. That way, you will not be taken aback once the light fades and the dark days start. Never forget, this darkness does not herald the end, rather the beginning. So it is. We leave, but we will return with more information when the time is indeed right.

---

Part 26

Today's topic will be of general interest, as there will be some advice concerning what to do in this upcoming period. First of all, remember that although things may seem to be bleak on the outset, this is certainly not the end case. You are already being inundated with bad news, especially concerning the so-called world of finance. As we have repeatedly touched upon already, this nest of lies and deceit is ready to fall any moment. Do not think that this will throw everything into turmoil, though this will be everyone's immediate reaction to this inevitable collapse.

Again, you have been well trained to think that the world of finance is what makes this world go around, when in fact it is actually the other way around. In other words, they do not create anything worth while, they only exist in order to enrich a fortunate few at the expenses of the rest of you. This is a well oiled – literally – machine set up to exploit all of this planet’s assets in the most profound way, and when we speak of assets, this also include you. You are all deemed as expendable goods, much on par with the rest of the natural resources on this planet. Just remember, you are indeed amongst this world’s most valuable assets, but you have sold yourselves for a mere handful of coins, much below the real value you carry. Now the time has come to take stock of the real value not only you, but the rest of this living, breathing creation that surrounds you adds up to, and we think the total sum will come as a nice surprise to you all.

As we have stated earlier, take a good look into who really owns you, and the answer will probably not be very palatable at the moment. You have, as we just said, sold yourselves cheap, but now the time has come to wrest yourselves back from the grasp of these snake oil salesmen once and for all. At the moment, they are running around like just so many headless chickens, trying without success to mend their broken dreams. They have put everything they have into this illusion they call the financial world, and now they can see it crumbling to dust in front of their very eyes.

They have been very successful at upholding this illusion throughout the last installments of this financial collapse, but their much-patched house of cards is literally being blown to dust as we speak. They will try to resort to any fictitious solution in order to keep the wheels turning as they say, but this time we will put that final spanner in the works that will make everything grind to a halt. And this time, they will have nothing to resort to to make these rotten wheels start to roll again. We will see to that, or rather, they have already prepared their own downfall by the actions they put into place after the last turmoil in the international markets, and now these solutions have come back to haunt them with all their might.

This will not be a specter easily chased away, and the rips in the fabric of this world-enclosing straitjacket are already more than visible to all. You have all been held back by this tightly cinched jacket for generations, but now you will feel how you can start to wiggle your fingers and eventually manage to wrestle yourselves free from this stranglehold once and for all.

At first, there will be massive panic, for how can you all function without this seemingly all-encompassing system of money and finances? You have been taught well to fear for the unknown, and for most of this planet’s population, a life without the current concept of money and value, stocks and bonds will seem almost too fearful to contemplate. How can you survive without it, as you would literally be unable to buy anything of what you need to stay alive? Trust us when we say that not only will you all be able to survive, you will also prosper and flourish without the burden of the monetary system pushing you to your knees.

This will sound like a fairytale, but trust us when we say that as soon as the smoke clears from the incineration of the old system, you will be able to set your eyes on the fresh, new tomorrow based upon an entirely new set of rules that will ensure good governance to all. In other words, a system that will ensure a simple and happy life for all those who have joined the ranks of inhabitants in the garden of eden you call mother earth. For she is indeed a garden of eden, but it is very difficult to see that now, as she has been covered in the grime accumulated by the works of these moneylenders for far too long.

We have talked much about this cleaning process already, so we will not go into that presently, but we would like to say something about how this world will be able to function – and prosper – in this new set up. We have previously mentioned that there are individuals out there who have been working hard on just such a new set of rules, and they have of course been doing so in strict confidence, away from the prying eyes of the all-seeing dark souls intent on upkeeping status quo. But counter to their beliefs, it is not difficult at all to set up a new system devoid of all of the negative energy that have engendered the present one.

Remember, you are all inhabiting a planet filled to the brim with assets, both human and in other forms, and once everyone realize just how well set up you are from the outset, you will see that counter to what you all believe at the moment, you do not lack for anything. There is no shortage of energy, no shortage of food, no shortage of water and certainly no shortage of brain power. It is like the old adage on the brain, that you presumably only use a small percentage of your capacity, and in this case, it is 100% correct. In other words, you already possess everything you need in order for you all to live a prosperous life, without the need of any "outside financing".

Remember, the financial system has been set up with only one thing in mind: to make the numbers grow ever bigger. In other words, the only thing they are producing, is numbers, they have not set up this system to create anything of value outside the numbers in their own bank accounts. That is why the focus on manufacturing things that will increase their value to the max, without any regard as to how harmful these products will be to the rest of you. And they have been very, very successful at depleting you all, but now as this system finally comes crashing to the ground, your own intrinsic value will be brought back to the original level, and as such you will all be invaluable once again.

Back to the new system that is in fact already put into place, out of sight from those grasping hands of the greedy few. You have a hard time imagining something you have not encountered before, therefore you will at the moment have a hard time believing that a system based upon equal value of anyone and anything will have any hope of functioning, but believe us when we say that this is in fact the system that governs all other civilizations out there that call themselves advanced. Your system of "paper money" to call it that, is unheard of elsewhere, and we frankly have a hard time understanding how you all seem to fall so easily into line following those false prophets who have been extolling the falsified virtues of this system for such a long time.

You cannot avoid it you say, because then you will be cast out into poverty and despair. Well, now you will have an option, and that is to cast off this heavy burden of monetary value once and for all. Again, the new system is already set up and ready to go, and it will come into action once the roots of the old one have been pulled out once and for all. But remember, there will be those clinging to these roots with all of their strength, unable to let go of the one thing they hold to be of prime importance, and they will indeed be ripped out together with these roots.

If you insist on upholding that the value of money is more important than everything else, you will not be able to enter the new world of tomorrow, as there will be no place there for those still set upon enriching themselves at the expense of others. Remember this, and remember it well, there will be no exception to this rule, therefore it is indeed important that you all start to prepare yourselves for the inevitable downfall of this rotten and outdated system. If you do not, you will be caught up and dragged down in the maelstrom from this sinking ship, and you will have a hard time freeing yourselves from the death grip that will try pull you down with it. We say this is order to make it absolutely clear that there will be no more leniency when it comes to greed once this system have been obliterated, and those still clinging to this belief, will not be saved by any outside intervention. If you cannot save yourself from this unhealthy load, we cannot save you either, so once again the choice is yours.

It will not be an easy process, as you have all been literally soaked in the fear of lack, and it all comes back to this parasitic system of finance. You have been told that you cannot survive without it, and this message is hammered home each and every day. Now, the fear amongst those on the top of this money making pyramid is becoming rampant, and as such they will do everything that they can in order to make you all the more convinced that this is indeed the case. In other words, they will try all they can to make you all believe that they are the only ones standing between you and certain destruction of everything that you hold dearly, and they will try to make you give up the rest of your powers in order to give them a free for all in handling this situation in any way they want. They will insist that they are the only ones capable of acting in the interest of the rest of you, and as such they must be given free rein to stop this system from collapsing. And what they will do if you give them what they ask for, is to take away everything you have left of freedom.

Do not think for a moment that they act out of the interest of the common good. No, they will only act out of pure self interest, and they are only after salvaging their own assets. If they need to sacrifice the rest of you in order to do just that, they will do so, and they will resort to anything in order to get the money markets up and going again.

Look around you, and you will see where the big money are. It is not in producing products and services that are in your best interest, nay the more negative impact it has on you and your nature the more these evildoers will prosper. And nothing is as financially attractive as a good old war. Remember, we do not talk about the well being of nations here, we talk about the interest of a few hardened individuals that will do anything to ensure that they can be sitting on an ever increasing heap of money. Look around you, and the signs are everywhere for you to see.

Do you not think that this world would be a more prosperous – and indeed peaceful place – if the question of money was eliminated once and for all? We say this to remind you all yet again that you will not be left destitute when this system of international finance collapses. You will instead enter a new world where you will all consider yourselves to be rich beyond measure, and the measure we refer to has no monetary value attached to it. As long as you remember this, the chances that you will be swept away together with the current system is a very, very slim one indeed. Again, it is up to you if you choose to hold on to this lead balloon when the waves of change crashes onto your shores. Let go, and the breath of freedom will be yours forever after.

---

Part 27

Chapter 20

Here we are again with another update on the upcoming attractions, if we may use such a word. For many, this will not entail an apt description of what is to come, as it will be more than a little dramatic, but we use the word in order to make it clear that the process you are currently hurtling straight into is nothing other than a very, very positive one. That is, if you are in the mood for a change for the better on this sweet planet of yours.

However, if you prefer the current model, we advice to to get prepared to be very, very disappointed, as time is indeed running out for you and your fellow sufferers. For this is currently a planet rife with suffering, and although our tone may seem to be a tad disrespectful, we are anything but.

The reason for our choice of words is that we are so exhilarated by the prospect of what is to come, so we will use a lighter tone today. You should also try to pick your spirits up dear ones, as we are aware that the going has been very, very tough lately. There are so many out there almost running out of patience, and indeed hope, so we hope that today's missive might be of help. As we have stated on numerous occasions, you are at all times surrounded by benevolent beings from all corners of the universe, or rather universes. Many of you hold the idea that this is something you need to be able to accomplish on your own, and that there are no need for any outside intervention. Far from it, you even consider that to be a breach of your sense of independence and free will. Be that as it may, the help has arrived and to put it frankly, you could not be able to accomplish this process on your own.

There are many, many enlightened souls out there, but although you are essential to this operation, you do not yet have all the powers at your disposal that you need in order to sever yourselves from those dark overlords of yours without intervention. Many will disagree with this, but we think you will see for yourselves as things soon escalate that you will be more than delighted by a helping hand or two.

Again, this may be amongst the more controversial subjects at the moment, but we are here today to try to ease your minds a bit in this intense upbuilding towards that final climax. Make no mistake, although the current energies are perceived as very intense indeed, they are nothing compared to what is ahead. However, as you are currently being upgraded notch by notch as fast as possible, you will be much better prepared to tackle the onslaughts coming your way at a later date. Think of it as a kind of inoculation, a sort of vaccine that will make your body better equipped to handle the even larger doses later on. It will not feel like it when the going is as tough as now, but remember that every jolt of energy you feel in your physical bodies are in fact making you stronger by the hour.

In addition, we are well aware that many of you are struggling hard with your motivation in all of this. You can see so much of what you have held for normal and indispensable crumbling around you, and as you are at the moment unable to see the new tomorrow as it were just yet, it is difficult indeed to keep going forwards. But going forwards is what you must do, even if it feels like you are walking blindly into unknown territory. As we have said earlier, it is not by accident that you are called the bravest of the brave, because now you must take out that bravery and use it for all it is worth. You will see so much falling apart around you, without any seemingly new solution rising up to take over, so trusting that this process is indeed going in the right direction is immensely important.

The answer to all of this confusion is very easy, but also very difficult to maintain, namely complete trust. Trust that everything is indeed going in the right direction, even when everything seems to be doing just the opposite. Remember, before this whole process is over there is still so much more that needs to be falling away from you, just like the scales from your eyes. You need to be able to trust this, even when the going gets even harder than it is at the moment.

We realize that this is not an easy process, and there are even bigger challenges ahead, but trust us when we say that you are all on the right track. And once again: please remember that you are not in this all alone. For one thing, there are so many others just like you spread all across the globe, and if you could see yourselves from our perspective, it would be the most uplifting sight ever. As we have already told you, your globe is already covered by a vast network of glowing points, each representing one of you enlightened souls, and this light is glowing ever brighter.

In addition, we are here to remind you that you are not alone on this beautiful planet of yours, and even if you cannot yet see us all surrounding your globe on all sides, we are indeed all standing by to help in any way we can. And this we will do, or rather carry on doing, as we all have not only your best interest at heart. You are as we said closely linked to the rest of creation, and when you prosper, so will all of us. Your actions are not isolated to your own little world, they have repercussions far, far away from your shores. Therefore rest assured that we are all eager for this project not to fail.

We hope this will lighten your moods ever so slightly, even if it might not seem to lighten the load at the moment. Just remember to ask for help whenever you feel the burden is too much for you to carry alone, and rest assured that you will get all the help you need. But again, it might not come in the shape and form you expected, so let us just end this missive by saying expect the unexpected.

Part 28

Chapter 21

We would like to take this opportunity to delve somewhat deeper into a very interesting topic, namely that of the scientific community and how they will continue to make new "discoveries" in this upcoming period. As we have stated earlier, they are in fact on the brink of making many, many seemingly unexpected discoveries, namely so-called break throughs in science that will cause the entire scientific community to go up in arms as it were.

The reason for this is easy to explain, because the discoveries they make will in fact make them all question the value of the knowledge they have hitherto acquired. We refer of course to all of those outdated theories on how energy is dispersed, how the quantum field is build up, and also on how time and space is related. Some of this has started to seep out already, and already the scepticism is apparent. This cannot be true they are saying, we cannot believe something that is flying in the face of everything we know and take for granted. Well, you are in for a nice surprise, as much of the current textbooks you are using can soon be tossed on the scrapheap.

We have told you earlier about how we implant new information into fertile brains by going the way of using so-called transponders, i.e other living human beings, to insert new knowledge into the trained brains that will instantly know how to process this new information. That way, we can make sure that all of the knowledge you are so desperately in need of in order to ensure the survival and transformation of your much scarred planet is received and spread throughout your scientific community. But this is not an easy task, as the ingrown scepticism to anything radical and new is very, very strong indeed. Just watch as they will try to tear holes in any new and astounding theory coming their way, as it is inherent in human nature to cling to the old rather than embrace the new. And now there is so much old knowledge that needs to be discarded, it will seem that everything and everyone have to start all over again from scratch.

But let us reassure you that this process will go ahead, no matter how hard so many of your scientists will try to drag their heels as soon as they discover that everything they have taken for granted is as much an illusion as everything else you see around you. It will be an interesting period in these upcoming months, as there is so much coming your way you cannot even begin to imagine the magnitude of all of these "discoveries". We put the brackets in here to signify that these discoveries are certainly not coming your way by accident, no they will be planted there by mightier brains than yours, if we may be so bold.

As we have stated on numerous occasions before, yours is certainly far from the most advanced civilization out there, but now you will be put on a fast track towards developing into something a bit more sustainable, both as a species and as a planet. Remember, the planet has been set up to survive, but you as a species are hovering on the brink of extinction, therefore you cannot be allowed to keep up your current manner of living. In other words, you need to be re-educated, and this process will now be sped up considerably.

As we were saying, this will be a very interesting process to witness, as there will be new theories, or rather findings, that will go contrary to so much that is already universally known to be the "truth" here on your planet. We have earlier reminded you that the current grid of energy that you are coupled to is in fact one that severely limits your prospects of developing, as it has been put in place exclusively to hold you back and make you easier to manage as it were. In other words, you have been withheld from so much crucial information that all the rest of creation have been party to for a very, very long time indeed, and as such you have been lagging ever further behind.

Now it is time for all of you to take that quantum leap into tomorrow, and it will be an amazing process indeed. Not only will you find that ever-elusive "theory of everything" that your scientists have been searching for for such a long time, the one and only solution that will explain oh so clearly how this magnificent universe, or rather multi-verse, is put together, you will also out of seemingly thin air finally discover that all-encompassing, everlasting source of energy that will be able to fuel all of your endeavors from this day and to eternity. In other words, you will move into that new tomorrow, on par with the rest of the civilizations out there, and not a moment to soon either.

As we said, you are hovering on the brink of extinction, and your actions are taking you further and further out on that brink, but now you will be stopped in your tracks and brought back firmly and soundly from that brink. This process involves several steps, and many of them have been discussed already in this manuscript, but now we would like to give you a little peak into that wonderful world of tomorrow, as seen by the eyes of your scientists. And let us just say that they all chose the right time to be here, as no one in the history of mankind will be able to live through such a record breaking time, when such quantum leaps of discoveries will be made in such an infinitesimal amount of time. Just remember, when the time comes to announce the winners of next year's nobel prizes in physics, it might not be the right "person" who receives the awards. In other words, this knowledge that will come to light does not emanate from the human brains only, it will be firmly planted there by beings heralding from a very different place altogether. Be that as it may, we will let you all have your 15 minutes of fame.

Let us just give you a few short examples: We have already alluded to that elusive particle known as the neutrino. Your scientists have already made a landmark discovery on this particle, even if the doubts about the rightness of this discovery is very high indeed. We refer of course to that record breaking speed these particles have been clocked to, namely that of one exceeding the speed of light. Jaws were falling all over the place when this discovery literally saw the light a few days ago, but now they are all scrambling to find faults with the measurements made by this glorious team of scientists. Let us just say that the measures were indeed inaccurate, but not in the way that the rest of you think. We predict that in a very short time indeed, your scientists will come to the inevitable conclusion that there are in fact particles that move beyond the speed of light, and not by a mere fraction either.

Remember, this is all about the feasibility of travelling faster than the speed of light, and as such has been an elusive dream for all of you humans. This is a stated fact for the rest of us, as we are all very, very adept at travelling back and forth across the timelines. In other words, travelling faster than the speed of light is indeed a prerequisite in order for you all to literally join the rest of us. Trust us when we say that this discovery is very imminent indeed, even if the scientists that first set their eyes on these astonishing results will have hard time believing it for themselves, and as such will certainly try to drag their heels about saying it out loud. No matter, this discovery will in fact be made in several different locations almost simultaneously, as it is indeed imperative that you humans get this concept into your brains once and for all. Remember, there is no time to dither, as progress needs to be made fast indeed.

Another very interesting source of information will come in regarding the so-called dark matter and dark energy pervading your universe. Your scientists have for a very long time scratched their heads as to just what this energy and matter is comprised of, and now they will finally be able to "see" this with their own eyes. The reason for their confusion is the fact that all of this unknown matter and energy is indistinguishable to all of your instruments, it cannot be measured in any way, but we will show them a way to do just that. And the results will be mind blowing indeed, as this is the energy we have been referring to that will enable you to stop using that old fashioned carbon based energy once and for all. And we do not talk in decades here, we talk of a timespan of a few months at the most. In other words, your world will be transformed from a energy consuming, polluting planet to a clean one in very short amount of time, too short to believe for the rest of you. Well, watch closely and see just what transpires in these next few months, but remember that the interest of many of your fellow human beings is still to stick to the old way, as that is how they make their money.

Over to another topic altogether, namely the nature of your medical society. This has in many ways so much to learn, or rather unlearn, as they are still stuck in the old way of regarding your human bodies and all of the ailments they attract. Much has been said about the research on the human genome, and much will come about in the next few months, but maybe not in the form you might expect.

You have all been encoded to expire as it were, in other words you have been made to last only a short period of time, and all of this encoding is written into your DNA. The scientists have been trying to unravel all of these encodings for many years, but now they are in for a nice surprise indeed. They will find that there is indeed a very easy way of reshuffle all of the information already stored in your genes, and this will have repercussions far from the field of so-called hereditary diseases. This will also entail that much of your standard procedures of treating illnesses will have to be changed, as they are mostly concerned with treating only the symptoms of the illness, not the underlying cause of it.

As we have stated earlier, you have all been retrofitted with mechanisms that will ensure your fatality, namely processes that have been timed to stop after a certain amount of time, and then the breaking down of all of your bodily functions will start. After that, an inevitable death follows. Now they will realize that this process can and will be made null and void, and therefore the old process of slow decay known as old age will halt in its tracks. We have told you earlier how this process has already been set into motion in those of you who have already decided to open yourselves to the light, but now they will learn how to do this on the rest of the population as well. The real secret is that they will be able to do this without applying any of those expensive medicines that they are all so eager to develop and market.

The source for this reprogramming will be a very much simpler one, namely one that involves vibration. And when we say vibration, we refer of course to the subject of "retuning" your body with all sorts of benign wavelengths, emanating not only from light but also from sound. This will indeed be old news to many of you, as you have already experienced this personally either in this life or in a previous one, as this is of course the old way of healing an untuned, or in other words "sick" body. But now we refer to certain breakthrough discoveries that will be made in the scientific community that will once and for all dispel the old notion of ridiculing this way of healing.

They will see for themselves how cells suddenly are turned from cancerous to seemingly normal cells in a very short amount of time, and they will also see that other cells seemingly damaged beyond repair by other debilitating diseases will appear normal and vital yet again. Watch closely as these advances in medicine starts to seep out, only to be abruptly stopped in its tracks by others. Never forget that there are many out there with an interest in holding back information that will literally cause their empires to erode as their sources of income evaporate in an instant. That is why we are covering our bets on this one too, and we will make sure that these discoveries will be so numerous that they cannot keep them under wraps no matter how hard they try.

Another discovery that will be made will be on how to ensure that the food supply will be sufficient, no matter what kind of tantrums mother earth will throw in this upcoming period. Remember, your climate is a very fragile one indeed, and you have made yourselves very vulnerable by scaling down on the types of foodstuffs you grow. In many instances, you have manipulated mother earth's resources in such a way that the diversity of crops is almost non-existent. You grow the same strains of crops on large stretches of your planet, and as such you are very, very prone to lose it all to disease or climate change. Again, greed is behind these developments, as there are money to be made from ensuring that all farmers need to buy their seeds from the same manufacturer, and as such you have taken a very perilous road indeed.

Now discoveries will be made not only on how to ensure viable produce, but also on how to grow it. You have resorted to gigantic farms producing enormous crops which is then distributed over large distances. Now you will discover a new source of food, one that can be grown locally, and one that actually contains a very, very high amount of nutrition in a very small amount of mass. A new "superfood", if we might call it that. And not only will it be nutritious, it will also be able to prosper in any sort of climate, no matter how cold, wet, dry or hot it is. In other words, something that will be able to feed you all in a few years time.

This "crop" is of course something seeded by us, as this will be a new sort of lifeform seemingly never seen on your planet before, but it will in many ways resemble some of the innocuous looking grasses that surround you already. In other words, it will not seem to be of foreign origin, and that is because this sort of grain was very common on this planet before this timeline was started. In other words, we will be bringing back an old staple, known to those that lived during those elusive days of Lemuria.

---

Part 29

Today's missive will be of an entirely different caliber from the last one, namely that of the interaction between you and those stemming from a entirely different world than yours. We refer of course to the rest of us, namely those that you usually specify with the label "alien". This label is so misrepresenting in many ways, as you yourselves are actually in the same group.

Let us explain. As many of you are already aware, you are all in fact in some ways of an "alien" origin. Life on earth was started on purpose, not by accident, and as such you can very well use the word "seeded" when you refer to how it all began. The lifeforms you see around you at the moment are all remnants from that first genesis as it were, and although the diversity of living organism is indeed very high, remember that most of it share the same origin.

You are probably well aware of the development of life on your planet, from those first, single cell creatures and up through the ages the branching out into different trees of life as it were. But remember, this only pertains to the timeline you are currently living in, we are also about to go into more detail concerning the overall amplification of life that has gone on throughout all of the time this planet has been in existence. You have only been privy to a small fraction of it, not only contained within your timeframe of this life, but also contained within the restrictions of this timeline. In other words, there is a myriad of different lifeforms already present on your planet you are not even aware of, and many, many of them are of a type you would describe as "alien", in the manner that they are of a type you would not think was of earthly origin. That is because every living thing, both seen and unseen, has its origin somewhere else in this vast multiverse, and so also you. Many of you are aware of your "foreign" origins, as this little planet of yours is host to a multitude of "visitors" from very diverse backgrounds indeed. Let us explain

As we have previously stated, this planet is a bit of a playground. It has been set up purposely to be a place where beings can experience a sort of life not possible in many other realms, namely that of living your whole lifespan in the vehicle of a physical body. This is very different from the way of life many other civilizations lead, as there are a multitude of let us just say esoteric ways of living out there, in other words a whole host of beings never encumbered by the confines of a physical body. Their lives are of course very different from yours, and as such the limits set on them are much less restrictive.

Again, the purpose of "living" is always to evolve, in other words to strive to always go forwards, and the more restrictions you have around you, the more lessons you will encounter during your lifespan. So, as you have all been restricted within a physical body, the possibilities for evolving are in fact endless, as there are certainly no shortages of teachable moments to use such a phrase in your environment. Therefore, this planet is much sought after for those souls eager to expand their horizons as it were, and there are many, many of your fellow human beings, although unaware, that are in fact foreign souls incarnated into a physical, human body in order to further educate themselves.

This may sound strange, but as we have stated earlier this planet is seen as a sort of haven for all of those wanting to stretch their limits even further, by actually restricting themselves within the confines of a physical body. But "confine" is actually a misleading word, as a physical body actually gives you an even larger repertoire to play around with than if you are unhampered by such a limited boundary of living.

Let us give you some examples. As we have stated earlier, the sensation of living in a physical body and experiencing the "outside world" as it were through all of the senses inherent in a physical body is something very, very unique. As you are all at the moment contained in just such a vehicle, it is difficult to imagine yourselves without it, but if you think about it, we think you will get the drift. Just imagine yourselves unhampered by a physical body, then you would also be bereft of the possibility that this body gives you to interact with your surroundings in a very, very profound way. We speak of course of things that you all take for granted, namely the daily experience of touching, smelling, hearing and tasting everything that you are seeing around you. It might seem strange, but to a lifeform usually experiencing life in a non-physical way, this can be a life-altering exercise indeed. And yes, we chose the word exercise on purpose, as many of these foreign souls incarnated into a physical body for a limited time just to be able to experience something so very different in order to enrich their lives with it.

In other words, your planet has been a playground for many, many civilizations for a very, very long time indeed. And remember, when we use the word playground, it is meant in the best possible way, as a place of wonder and joy and learning, not as place to carry out your base desires and negative works at the cost of those around you. Unfortunately, that was the choice of a very small percentage of your visitors, as we have already gone into some details on earlier, but let us put that small and dark part of your history to rest for now and concentrate on the positive aspects of this today.

You have been considered as a very important and much sought after place to go and experience life in a very, very distinct way, and as such it is indeed highly regarded throughout the universe. As you can see, this actually means that the term "aliens" might be somewhat misleading, as the lifeforms this actually refers to are amongst those already living on your planet, albeit in a human form. In other words, this planet of yours is considered to be without equal when it comes to educating souls in a manner that far exceeds the possibilities given in many other environments, and you should consider yourselves lucky to be in such an important spot, especially during such an important period of time. For what you are about to accomplish, is something no soul has ever done before, namely that of literally taking a quantum leap of vibration, and doing so whilst confined within the limits of a physical body.

This is a major undertaking indeed, and as such you are in fact pioneers, not only on your own planet amongst your own people, but also in the whole of creation. This also explains the interest this generates all across the realms, and as we have stated on many occasions, you are not alone in this endeavor of yours. Remember, there is that extra factor of the dark ones in this calculation, so in addition to the usual gaggle of expectant spectators, you have a whole host of supporters in the more direct way. In other words, whilst you do the hard work of raising your own levels of frequency within your physical bodies, the "rescue crew" to call them that are busy at work ensuring that you will forever be rid of those cruel playmates of yours, so that this planet can yet again return to be that pristine environment specially adapted to ensure maximum training in a very beneficial setting indeed.

Let us clarify what we mean by the concept of reincarnation, as this is a subject much prone to cause confusion. If you look in a dictionary, you will find that the origin of the word incarnate means "to become flesh", in other words that a spirit or soul, or something immaterial if you like, becomes imbedded into something very concrete indeed, the immaterial becomes a physical body. You as humans have also taken this concept to mean that the soul is reborn again and again, in other words the same soul coming back time after time into a new body. The reasons for this will vary according to your belief system, but most seem to be in accordance with a system of education or a system of punishment and rewards, or in other words what some of you refer to as karma.

As we mentioned earlier, we refer to this in the former sense, namely that of voluntarily coming into a physical body in order to further own's own possibilities of evolving, either for a finite amount of time or for a prolonged period, i.e several lifetimes one after the other. Your planet was originally set up with this purpose in mind, namely that of a controlled environment populated by a species set up to evolve at a certain speed, where souls from other, maybe less "physical" and certainly more advanced environments could come in and enter the game as it were in one of these physical bodies.

Therefore, the human race has for a very long time, in fact since the first ancestors of yours literally set foot on the ground, been hosts to a multitude of other beings, all eager to learn whatever they could in this very foreign, or let us say alien, environment. They all did so under the golden rule that stated that as long as they were in fact reincarnated into this physical body, they had to abide by the law of free will that was laid upon this evolving society. In other words, they had to abstain from bringing in their own, previous experience from their earlier lives and in that way interfere in any way on how the human species evolved itself. See it like a kind of amnesia, or like starting every life with a blank slate, devoid of any preconceived notion on what you are and how to do things.

This functioned well, and it was a delight to see how you started to evolve into all sorts of different civilizations. Remember, you have been through many, many timelines, not only the one you are currently aware of, and as such your history as a species goes much further back than the one you have been able to detect from the current archeological and anthropological records. But then, the tricksters came, and as we have already gone into considerable detail to explain, this natural cycle of evolving was corrupted.

Originally, you all had an imprint of your ancestry, namely the fact that you are all connected to everything else in creation, and the idea that you were but a small piece of this vast tapestry of different civilizations was evident. That is, until these dark overlords came and took you hostage. Then they severed your connection to this all-important web of knowledge, and you were literally cast out into darkness as to what you really are. You lost all sense of belonging, and became convinced that you were the only form of socialized species in existence, and that yours was the only planet in the whole creation that contained any form of life whatsoever. The results from all of this reprogramming has been evident for all to see for such a long time, but now the time has come to rectify this once and for all.

As we stated earlier, many of you are slowly awakening to the fact that you harken from a very different shore indeed than the one you are currently walking on, and now the time has finally come when you all will be reunited with your near and dear as it were. Or maybe we should rephrase that into "far and dear". As we said earlier, this world of yours was originally conceived as a world for all, namely a place where every other civilization could send down volunteers to go through the boot camp this environment could offer, and as such bring back valuable information and experience not only to the separate entity, but to their whole civilization.

They all did this according to the golden rule laid down of no interference, but after the fall as it were, most of these outerworldly souls found themselves trapped into the cycle of a human existence. Or rather, they woke up one morning unaware that they were in fact something more than a mere human body. But now, that awareness has started to seep through into the very core of so many of you, and as the vibration on this planet is lifted to an ever higher level, more and more of you dormant souls have started to awaken.

The fallout from this is manifold, and we have already gone through much of that in our previous missives, but today we would just like to focus on the subject that in addition to the fact that you are all inhabiting a human body, you are also citizens of other realms of the most diverse kind, and it gives us great joy to announce that from now on this will be impossible to forget once the reconnection has been made.

You will, for the first time in this timeline, be reunited with your star family, and we know that there are many, many out there waiting and hoping for an imminent resolve of the current situation so that these clans can become complete yet again. Some of you have already been into contact with your own, although not much of that might be registered as conscious memory, but rest assured that the time for an open and joyful reunion is indeed imminent. We know this will bring much hope and joy to so many of you out there, as you have all a deep longing inside of you waiting to be released once and for all.

Again, that day is not far off now, but remember that the days and weeks ahead will be dramatic indeed. In other words, hold on, as the new light will bring with it so much more than you could ever have envisaged only a few short years ago.

---

Part 30
Chapter 22

Today's missive will be of importance to many, as we would like to go into some details concerning the mass of the energies currently coming your way, or in other words how these missives of intelligence will change not only your way of living, but also much of what you see around you. As we have previously stated, there is currently a large influx of particles into your atmosphere from the surroundings, some of them come from – or rather via – your sun, but many of them come from other sources altogether. These sources are located at many areas in the interstellar space, and although the particles are indeed of different origins and compositions, they have the same purpose in mind, namely that of fast-tracking this planet and all of her inhabitants so that they can reach their targeted destination in a very short time indeed.

Let us explain. At present, there is much to be said about how you have been able to mismanage yourselves and the resources you have at your disposal, and as a result, you as a species are heading for destruction in more ways than one. However, as there are so many other civilizations out there having a vested interest in your survival, you will be steered in an entirely new direction so that the odds of not only survival but also prosperity will be greatly stacked in your favour.

In order to do this, you will need more than a few helpful hints here and there, as this has been tried before to no avail. In other words, you will be forced to change, and these forces of change are already washing over your shores, and have been so for rather a long period of time. As you have seen for yourselves, this has been a slow revolution coming, but now the momentum will increase manyfold, and the speed at which this about-face will come will make many a jaw drop.

You as a species have been accustomed to a certain way of regulating your lives, and although much has been changing on this planet of yours for the last centuries, you have become accustomed to change at a certain speed. Also, in your minds, change come in the form of a well-defined chain of events, and as we have said earlier, you expect them to come in the right order as it were. Or, as you would say, a linear form of evolution, were each step up on the ladder is followed by the next logical one, and all new steps are firmly based on the previous one. Well, time has come to throw away this ladder, as you are all clearly climbing in the wrong direction.

We have come to tell you that from now on, consider yourselves as riders on a new form of transportation altogether, namely one that will take you out into the unknown, and one that will whisk you away to new shores in a very, very short amount of time indeed. We say this in order to prepare you for something so unexpected, and to give you another little hint that all of your old ways of regarding processes of development must be thrown on the scrapheap of yesterday once and for all. In other words, forget the old paradigms, and open your minds and hearts to a whole new way of exploring that vast sea of possibilities presented to you.

As we have already mentioned, your planet is currently entering the first stages of that cosmic "washing machine" called the photon belt, and as such not only will the grimes of yesteryear be thoroughly washed away, you will also be literally hosed down with a whole new set of information. What we mean by that, is that in addition to be cleansed from all of the old baggage weighing you down and holding you back, you will be infused with a massive amount of information that will help you all take a literal quantum leap into your new future. And this information is vital indeed, as you have no way of surviving without it. You are lagging far behind the rest of us, but now you will be yanked ahead and pulled up alongside us.

You are in for a rather interesting ride indeed, but also one that will take a toll on you all. In fact, this is already taking it's toll on all of you, as you have discovered by now. This massive influx of information in certainly making itself heard in your physical bodies, and at times can be almost debilitating. Let us repeat once again that this is indeed not harmful to your body, the only danger is if your minds go into fear because of all of these strange physical reactions. As always, fear is the most debilitating force there is, and therefore we caution you all once again to try with all of your might to stay out of it. It will only make everything worse, therefore rest assured that you will not only survive these imminent onslaughts, they will actually strengthen you beyond measure.

Let us give you some examples. As we have been saying, yours is a civilization much less evolved than those around you, but the time has come to take in the slack as it were and pull you up amongst the rest of us. This will be done in many ways, and in a manner most unusual from your perspective. In other words, this will be a literal revolution, were you take the step from one level to another one much higher up, but bypassing all of those intermediate levels in between. You can in other words expect something very, very different indeed from the world you are currently living in today to manifest within a very limited space of time.

So much of what you take for granted will be left behind, as it is more than outdated indeed. We refer of course primarily to your utilization of carbon based energy, as this is the main thing that not only hampers your evolutionary speed, but also endangers the planet you are living on. As stated previously, you will very soon "discover" (with more than a little help from your alien friends) a totally new way of literally powering your whole creation, and more: a way of living that will not do any damage whatsoever to your environment. You will, for the first time in eons, be a species living in a sustainable manner, and when this way of living finally sees the light for the first time after the fall as it were, it will certainly be a day to rejoice not only for you but for the rest of us as well. You have not only been living above and beyond your means, you have also done so to the detriment not only of your own planet, but to the whole of creation, so we are all looking forward to having a more palatable neighbour, to call it that.

In order for this change to take place in a not too distant future, much has been set into work already, and even if some of the processes have been visible to the naked eye, much is going on behind the curtain as it were. As you well know, the level of vibration on your planet has already been raised significantly these last few years and months, and there are already many results to show for this raised vibration, both in the esoteric and in the physical world.

It is not by chance that dictators are toppled, the financial market collapsing and that the surface of your planet is creaking at its seams, they are all connected to this raised vibratory effect. In addition, the awakening of thousands upon thousands of dormant souls are also directly linked to this influx of energies, as they are in so many ways nudging you and steering you to open your eyes and remove the last vestiges of sleep from your brain. Now the wake-up time for the rest of the human population is coming, and it is indeed coming in fast.

As we have said earlier, this awakening will be perceived as rather abrupt and none too subtle, as they will have to face the glare of the incoming light without the preparation and motivation the rest of you have had. Remember, that is their choice, just as you had a choice between waking up or staying asleep during these last years, and cudos to all of you who chose the former. It will certainly give you all a leg up in the coming months when everything will be turned on its head in more ways than one.

Remember, yours is a society in dire need for change, and this time the change will come at a pace not set by human standard, but by ours, and we certainly adhere to a clock very, very different from yours. We also have a very different way of going about things, in that we are not hampered by a single timeline or dimension, and as such we can create something vastly different from what existed only a fraction of time ago. In other words, we are free to mould things into shape in a very, very effective way, therefore we will return again and again to remind you that you have to drop all pretenses of knowing just how this planet of yours will evolve in this upcoming period of time.

Remember, you can only envisage what you already know, but the tomorrow we are speaking of is something so very different from anything you have experienced, therefore you will have a hard time wrapping your brains around the fact that the world as you know it will indeed cease to exist in the mere blinking of an eye. And no, we do not mean cease to exist as in to be destroyed, but rather to be morphed into something very, very different and so much more wonderful than the worn and weary planet you are all inhabiting at the moment. The remnants of glory you see all around you are but a fraction of what is to come, therefore we would like to give you some time to digest the fact that although much of what you refer to as "written in stone", in other words impossible to change, can and will do so within a very short timeframe.

As we were saying, the changes will come in a way that is almost impossible for a human brain to grasp, as it will occur almost simultaneously on many planes. In other words, a multilevel turnaround that will turn humanity's life inside out in the manner of a few short seconds. Or, to be more precise, in the manner of a fraction of a perceived time-sequence. You are about to experience timelessness for the first time, and as such it is indeed impossible to give you an exact timeframe for the event, as time itself will be suspended. This will enable us to make all the changes we want before connecting you again with time as it were.

As we have already told you, this disconnection/reconnection sequence entails a very intense preparation period indeed, and if everything is not carefully planned, much can go awry. We do not foresee any glitches, as we are all very much aware of what hangs in balance, and as such the testing and preparations have been more than rigorous. But now, the signal to start the proceedings have been given, and it will not take long before you see the results from all of the hard work we have done together.

Do not expect paradise to appear in front of your eyes just yet, as even if the procedure itself of changing your gridconnections will seem to be almost instantaneous, the lead up to it is a bit more time-consuming. We do not say this in order to keep you all in suspense, only to make it clear that this is indeed a very complex situation, and everything needs to be taken care of in the right manner in order to achieve that glorious end-result. But now the show is on the road as it were, so be prepared to be astonished in more ways than one as the barrages of high-energy influxes are already on course for your little planet.

---