

---

As you all know so well by now, tomorrow is that magical marker you have all set so much hope upon. As we have discussed earlier, these dates do not actually hold a significance in themselves, but they are utilized as a sort of focal point in order to help humanity by giving them an opportunity to focus their attention in a way that will magnify everything beyond what it could have been if you all worked independently. So yes, tomorrow is indeed important, because this will mark the high point of you pooling your efforts, and the outcome of all of this will not go unnoticed. However, keep in mind that there are many out there hanging onto the hope that tomorrow will be either a cataclysmic event of global proportions, or a total dissolution of everything you know. Let us just say that it will be neither, but it is a date that will indeed bring about so much more than what even the most optimistic of you will hope for. But again, remember that what your mental capacity can conjure does not hold much compared to the realities we refer to. Therefore, we repeat that there will indeed not be many that will see their dream come true tomorrow.

And what do we mean by this? Simply the fact that what we are talking about, is a shift that no one of you can accurately describe, as you are about to enter the last stage of a portal that will have effects on you that no man has even been close to experiencing before. Again, this is not to give you false hopes, or even to try to dampen your spirits, rather it is just a reminder that this process is so much more complex than what you can even try to understand. You see, as we have already discussed in an earlier missive, this entails changes on so many levels, levels that you cannot even begin to access just yet. But you will, and when you do, you will finally see everything as clear as day. But do not think that this is what will happen tomorrow. For tomorrow is just a part of this whole process, and even if it is important indeed, try to remember that when you open your eyes on the day marked as 22.12.12 or 12.22.12 in your calendar, you might not even be able to tell the difference in your surroundings. Because the changes that are about to take place will not be seen on the surface, at least not in the way that all of those Hollywood productions have tried to instill into your minds over and over again. We say this in order to remind you all that these energetic changes will indeed be immense, and they cannot but take you all by storm, but for all of those dead set on a certain outcome for tomorrow and the days immediately following them, we say be prepared to be disappointed. For you simply cannot fathom what you are already in the midst of experiencing, and apart from some rather pronounced physical symptoms, not much will be seen in the next 48 hours.

So again we repeat, stay calm, and stay centered, and do not let your mind try to play any tricks upon you. For you are indeed being transformed into something so vast you have yet to see the likes of it, but again, it will not show itself in the way that you might have envisaged beforehand. But make no mistake, you will know, beyond any shadow of a doubt, that you have entered the vastness of your being for the very first time as soon as these waves of incoming energy quietens down somewhat. For now, you are standing on the shore, and the waves are starting to break, and they are immense indeed. Larger than anything you have ever experienced before. Do not be afraid, they will not drown you, even if they will seem to pull you under again and again. So remember to breathe every time you get a chance to do so, and this will carry you through the next round of this life altering ride. That is all for now, but we will be back with more as soon as you are all able to breathe a bit more freely. And do not worry, it will not be long before you feel the fresh air filling your lungs again for the first time after this battling of the waves. Until then, we bid you all good luck and godspeed. We will be at hand to assist you, should you so wish, but remember, this is your journey, and you are more than able to fulfill it all no matter how harsh the conditions will turn out to be. After all, you have not come this far just to turn around at the door. So stride confidently forwards, dear ones, you certainly have what it takes to complete this journey back into yourselves.

You have been anxiously awaiting good news dear ones, as you have all been struggling various ways through this tunnel of love. For many, you have already seen the proverbial light at the end, but for others, the darkness will seem to be even more profound. Fret not dear ones, you will not be stuck in this darkness for ever, and even if you might have a hard time getting your hope up at this moment, know that this is only a part of this process, and you are in fact not doing anything wrong at all. Let us explain.

As we touched upon in an earlier missive, in fact, we have talked about this several times before, mankind have a habit of making presumptions in their heads as to how and when certain things should come about. And, as you all know so well, these fabled days in December 2012 have been a bit of a hyperbole, to put it lightly. That is easy to understand, because as none of you have any prior knowledge as to how such a massive process as this will come about, you have an ingrained need to try to picture it anyway. And then, some of these images take on a mass appeal, and they are aired and discussed and seem to take on a life on their own. After a while they are presented as "facts" or even "The Truth", and many will start to adhere to these truths. Well, as you all know so well, a human mind has a certain limitation to it, and anything not fitting within these limits will not be easy to understand. So too in this, and as we said beforehand, many will become very disappointed during this period of transition. And many have, even to the point of destruction. For they have come to lose every hope, not only in this process, but also in themselves. And when they do, they will have a hard time finding anything to believe in, and their future will seem to be less than bleak.

Mankind have a long story of this, and as usual, it will act a sort of a self destructive mechanism. For, as we have said on so many occasions, there is nothing that can stop you now, except yourselves. For your fear is the only thing standing in your way now, there are no outside forces creating havoc anymore, they have been neutralized and cannot affect but minor irritations here and there. The only thing stopping any of you now, is your own inner fear of letting go and pushing through it all. And this inner voice of self doubt have been very, very strong, as so many of you have testified to lately. And do you think it was a coincidence that it was heard by so many after a day when so many of you were literally swimming in bliss and love?

We do not say this to criticize any of you, we are merely trying to shed some light on this process. For this is in so many ways a solitary journey, where you will be forced to face every challenge you meet head on, and you are the only one who can decide whether to keep pushing forwards, or whether to give in to that voice inside telling you it is futile to continue. Remember it is not for nothing we called this period the tunnel of love. For just like in a carnival ride, it is a dark tunnel you have to pass through, and surprises are lurking where you least expect them. And why is this process like this? Why, to give you the chance to discover the real you, the one that is residing at your very core, the one that is so much stronger and braver and more resilient than you could ever have hoped for. For this is not a journey set up in order to make you all suffer. This is a journey set up to make you all become very clear about yourselves. Hence, this seemingly endless barrage of mental and physical ups and downs, throwing you off course one minute, guiding you back and firming your resolve the next.

For again we remind you, that this is a journey where it is every man for themselves. For it is up to each and every one of you just how fast or how slow your journey will be, because it is up to you to determine when the time is right for you to finally round that last corner and see the bright lights shimmering up ahead. Again, this is not any form of criticism, rather a reminder that this journey is not over for any of you, and even if you are amongst those still lingering somewhere in the darkest parts of this tunnel of love, you are no worse or no better off than any of the others. For you will all reach your goals at the designated time, some sooner than others, but all will do so at the exact time that is stipulated for you. And remember, you are the one stipulating this beforehand, there is no one else who can force you to endure one second longer of this process more than what you yourself have decided. Likewise, there is no one outside yourself who can give you a shortcut either. For each and every one of you will have to take this at your pace, and each and every one of you will be emerging from that dark mouth of this tunnel victorious.

For when you emerge, you do so whole and complete. For along the way, you will have shed any extraneous baggage you might have acquired that was holding you back, but instead, you will have gained all of those "missing parts" that constitutes the whole you. So we say this today, on the day that marks the beginning of a celebration of spirit and light for so many of you: do not forget to celebrate yourself. For even if you still feel mired down in the darkest part of this tunnel of love, you have made an extraordinary achievement already. In fact, for those still fighting off their urge to call it quits and give up, we say you must celebrate more than most. For you have chosen to take the most challenging route, and what you will learn along the way, will be lessons that will bring humanity such a long step forwards once you too emerge from this tunnel and become ready to share of your lessons. For they will not come easy to any of you, but what they leave behind is someone shining so brightly they will literally be able to light up even the darkest corner of this planet.

So again we tell you, celebrate yourselves in any way you can, for you have certainly more than earned the right to do so. And again we repeat, wherever you are, know that all is well and that you are doing everything just as you were meant to do it. For the tides have turned, and this waterfall of energy that has started to pour over you will affect you all in so many ways. At the moment, this light will be impossible to detect for all of those still finding themselves at a loss inside this seemingly endless dark place. But know that this light is also showering you and penetrating you to the core. So you too will benefit from all of this in so many ways, and so too will the rest of the inhabitants on this planet.

So take this for what it is, namely a message of hope, and a message of admiration. For you are all shining beings, and what you have already accomplished is a deed that outshines what anyone else in Creation can lay claim to. We salute you all and wish you all the best for this next stage of your journey, whether it will be in broad daylight, in the half light of dusk or in the pitch black of the night.

---

243

It has already started to become lighter, and we do not mean that just in the sense of the lengthening of the days in the northern hemisphere. The light quotient on your planet has increased manyfold these last few days, as the portal that you were all instrumental in opening on the days surrounding December 21. has already been successful in delivering enormous amounts of energy down to your little planet. It has been likened to an enormous waterfall, and rightly so, as this incessant stream of light is just like those gigantic waterfalls you can witness out in the nature on your beautiful little planet. And just like those waterfalls, so too will this stream of light continue to replenish you all incessantly and abundantly in the times ahead.

For now, you have all been connected to this unending stream of light, and even if the information carried within all of this light cannot yet be detected clearly, it has already started to work its magic. Not only on you, but on your whole planet, and as such, it can be likened to a second coming to use a phrase many of you are familiar with. We do not refer to any single entity here, quite the opposite, as what has arrived on your shores is for all, no exclusions will be made. For this force is an indiscriminate one, for this is from the source of love, and love knows no boundaries. We will not go into any length describing what the outcome of all of this love will be, suffice it to say you have entered a new time for mankind, when the weight of love will continue to increase, day by day, hour by hour. And even if many will feel the heavy burden of the dark still pulling them down, know that this is only a temporary feeling, as soon you too will feel how the weight will shift and the light from the love will ease this burden more and more off your shoulders.

We will leave it at that today, and return with more at a later date. In the interim, please know that you are all within the boundaries defined as "normal". In other words, you are not veering off your designated course in any way. And even if this stage is more than a little painful for some of you, know that you too will soon find that the pressure will ease off and you will begin to breathe more freely like some of your fellow brethren are doing already. After all, this is not an obstacle course designed to keep you indefinitely wandering in the dark, seemingly without the ability to find your way to the exit. For you all know fully well just where that exit is, you just need to finish a few more chores you have given yourselves to complete whilst travelling through this dark tunnel towards the ever brightening light. So know that you will take exactly the time you need to finish it all off, not a second more, not a second less. And know that when you too emerge, it will indeed be into a sunshine even more brilliant than the one you witnessed just before you entered into this tunnel of completion.

---

244

This time, the ending of a year and the beginning of a new one will be fraught with many emotions. After all, not many of you have had the chance, or even the wish, to even consider the fact that after the fabled year of 2012 there comes another one marked as 2013. For some, the very fact that everything, including your calendar, will seem to continue as if nothing has happened at all will be a source for great disappointment. But for others, the anticipation for what this new year has in store will be great indeed. For now, you will indeed enter uncharted territory. For never before have mankind been standing before an era like this, where you enter a new year equipped with an arsenal of energies like you do today.

So you stand on the threshold of greatness dear ones, and even if some of you still feel rather let down by the action, or rather non-action, of this last week, let us just remind you that nothing could be further from the truth. For what has transpired during these days in the aftermath of 12.12.12. and 12.21.12. is nothing if not life altering, not only for you as individuals, but also for this world as a whole. For you will exit this year as citizens of the multiverse, not as mere citizens of your world, or even your country. We are aware that for many, this will seem to be less than apparent, but we also know that some of you have already started to travel this new world that has literally started to open up before you, and this will continue to expand beyond any horizon you might care to try to describe.

We know that this will indeed sound like just another dose of lofty words, served up to placate you all, but let us just say that for those still trapped within the confines of this at times more than challenging tunnel of love, know that these walls will soon start to fade away and you will get a taste of real freedom that comes along with it. In other words, this connection to All there is will become more and more apparent as these tunnel-like walls starts to dissipate, and we know that there are some out there who can already testify to this fact. So we tell you to be discerning in these last few days surrounding the shift from this year to the next, and by that we mean that it is important to keep your focus on those parts of your existence where you can already sense that the change has taken place. For some, that will be easy, as that part of them has already started to grow in intensity. For others, it will be a hard task to fulfill, as the parts of them still stuck in yesteryear will seem to be overpoweringly so. But we know that if you too give yourselves the permission to do so, you will be able to connect with that spark within that has been lit during these last few days. And even if your mind and your physical body will try to divert your focus away from that inner glow, you should not let that deter you from reaching in and connecting with it. For it is indeed important that you do so, lest you should let your own inner judge convince you that you did not pass the test you have been served with as this year starts to fade away. For you have not failed any test dear ones, not in any way. For you are here, and you are about to enter the first year in the new count, when you will truly find your voice, and make that voice heard loud and clear.

---

245

The year of 2012 is fast running out, and with it, the anticipation of what is coming is building. As we have already touched upon, this can in many ways be likened to not only the starting of a new year, but actually the starting of a new era. For what you have accomplished in these last few weeks, far surpasses anything you have ever been through, and as such, you will all be well armed to take up the challenge of continuing to build your new world.

This will only be a short missive, as there is not much to say about what you are about step out from that has not already been talked about. However, we would like you all to take some time to connect in gratitude, for what you have achieved is nothing short of admirable. You have indeed come a very, very long way in a very short time, and even if many of you will feel at a loss at these words, thinking that they have yet to feel that they have accomplished anything apart from some rather intense physical and mental outbursts, know that this is not the case. So again we say take some time to sit down in silence and thank yourself for all that you have done to get you where you are now. And then, take some time to try to tune into the brand new that is arriving. For you are indeed on the threshold of so much dear ones, not just a new year on your calendar, but a new start in the history of mankind.

So when the fireworks blaze across the sky at the stroke of midnight tomorrow, know that from now on 2012 will be history, in all the connotations of the words. And then, you can take the first breath in the year known as 2013, or maybe we should call it year 1? After all, you have crossed a barrier no man has ever done before, and what you bring with you, are not in any way comparative to what you had within when this year started. You exit this year without of so much old and outdated baggage, so in that way you are already travelling much lighter than before. But you will enter the new year filled up with an energy that no one have seen the likes of.

So we say once again thank you dear ones, for a job very well done. And thank you for your perseverance and your willingness to keep going ahead, even when everything inside you and outside you are trying to tell you to just stop. For you cannot stop, and now, the sky is the limit as they say. So go forth, and take the leave of all that is old, and rejoice in the new, for it will bring with it so much that will make you say again and again: it has been hard work indeed, but it was worth it in the end! That is all for now, we leave, but we will connect with you again as the calendar once again starts to unspool the new year.

---

And so you have started to count down another year, and this time, it is as if you are starting a brand new countdown. Let us explain.

As you are all more than aware of, mankind have had their eyes and hearts set on the year of 2012 for a very, very long time, and as you are all also more than aware of, this has had such a strong impact on so many, it has been difficult to even think past this year. And so, now that you have well and truly passed through this portal called December 2012, you have now reached a brand new shore, a shore devoid of any footprints, where it is up to each and every one of you how you would like to make this year unfold.

For now, there are no more "magic dates" and now, there are no expectations or limitations put upon you that could hamper you in any way. For now, it is indeed time to open up, set the old human limitations aside, and start to think anew. For now, there are no more deadlines to be met, no more dates to consider, or no other markers of any kind that could affect your thinking in any way.

So take this for what it is, a fresh start, with no set tracks to follow. So make sure that you do indeed follow your own instincts from now on, and do not follow blindly in the footsteps of anyone else. For now, you are free to let your imagination set the pace and the course. So test your wings dear ones, and do not let any old limitations hold you back as you start on this brand new year in the brand new era of mankind.

As many of you have already ascertained, the quiet after the new year has already left, and now it is indeed business as usual. Or rather, more than usual, as the first energetic impacts of the year have started to arrive into your systems. They might not be as soft footed as some of the others have been, as they are certainly not shy in announcing their arrival. We know that this might seem to be a rather abrupt awakening after the last days that have been a bit on the quiet side, but as we said in an earlier missive, this waterfall of light cascading onto your little planet is not about to dry out anytime soon.

So best be prepared for some rather intense first offerings as this year announces its intention by amping up the volume once again. In other words, this will not be a quiet and shy little year, contented to stand in the shadow of its forerunner. Rather, this will be a year of some major movements of energy, and in their wake, interesting outcomes will follow. We would like to leave it at that for now. However, we will return shortly with more as these energies start to take their effect on you all. That is all for now, we leave.

The turbulence is increasing as these successive waves of energy are blasting onto your shores. Many will feel the fallout from all of this in a very profound way. Not only in your physical body, but also in your mental one, as these batterings of energy will seem to dislodge all that you perceived as more or less substantial by now. This will come as a surprise to many, as they felt that the tunnel of love had done so much to them, there was nothing more that could be done. But alas, the work is not over, and even if this will seem to be bad news to most of you, it is only a confirmation of the fact that as you have in many ways exited the tunnel, you have also entered the full glare of the light pouring down on you from above, and now, the effects of all of this have become apparent indeed. This may sound callous in some ways, but we will try to explain it in a more down to earth manner, perhaps that can in some ways soften the blow somewhat.

You see, all of this energetic bombardment is only a sure sign that you have indeed made it safe and sound to the next level. Usually, that comes with a sort of reprieve, or pause, as you are given some time to adjust yourself before the next injections arrive into your system. However, you have reached such a high level of vibration now, your pause becomes shorter and shorter, and with a good reason too. It is because you are so quick to adapt now, so your physical body is indeed ready to take on another and even more amplified version very quickly after the last one finally fades away. We know that for you, this will not sound as any consolation, rather the opposite, but to us, this speaks volumes on your level of prowess. For you have indeed become super humans, in more ways than one, and your ability to ingest and digest these new levels of energy are beyond what we could even have hoped for at the onset.

So yes, these in many ways brutal upgrades will continue, but not as relentless as these last few days. For even if you do not actually need a long time to recover after one of these bouts, we will indeed see to it that you get ample time to savour the peace and quiet between the next ones. After all, this is not about making you feel as uncomfortable as possible, it is only about making you as able as possible to continue your work on this planet. For this time, it is indeed up to you to make it all come about. We will, as always, stand ready in the wings, ready to give you a helping hand in the form of information and energetic boosts whenever you need them. But it is you who are the masters of your domain now, and therefore, it is you who will show the rest of your fellow men the way ahead.

For you are filled to the brim with light and love now, dear ones, and even if you might feel more than a little worn out after these last few days of hammering, we know that you will also start to tune into this inner reservoir now in a much more profound way than before. And through that, you will see how not only the physical symptoms start to dissipate, and you will start to get a clearer sense of your capabilities when it comes to your ability to function whilst still within these physical boundaries. You will also find that the mental fog that seems to have descended on you out from nowhere will start to dissolve.

So even if this message started out giving what may have been taken for bad news, it is only a signal once again that you have succeeded in tapping into that gigantic waterfall of energy that keeps pouring in from above. And even if the outcome from all of this will be literally overpowering at times, it is also a sure sign of success. So we hope you take this for what it is, namely another thumbs up from us, and a huge pat on the back as well. For we are more than impressed by your ability to take on whatever is thrown your way. But now, take some time to center yourself and see if you can sense the new power you have found through this, the last in a long line of energetic surges. But again, we remind you, there are more standing in line, waiting to be imparted into your body. And before you draw a huge sigh of despair thinking about that, remember that you will benefit from all of these majestic impacts of energy in ways you can only dream of now. They will boost you just like those rockets they use to lift your spacecrafts off of the ground, up through your atmosphere and into space. For you have no limits now, dear ones, and that is what you are about to find out as soon as you manage to look beyond the symptoms and tune into your own core.

As you have already ascertained, much is indeed starting to happen already, but it is doing so beneath the radar so to speak. Let us explain. As we have talked about in earlier missives, mankind have a habit of conjuring up images in the mind as to how and what this change will be all about. Well, as many have gathered already, this change will in many ways fall short of that. In other words, the expected cataclysms or outward show of a deep and profound change at the onset of the last month of December have been impossible to detect, and rightly so. For what has transpired, is something very different indeed. You have all been through a monumental and all-encompassing change these last few weeks, and this does not only apply to you. It applies to the whole human race. But this change is so profound and touches you all so deeply, it has in fact occurred in a place many have had no access to. In other words, it has happened deep within your core, and for so many of your fellow men, that is a place within themselves they do not even know exists. But it does, and when that change occurred, it signalled the end of one era, and the beginning of a new.

For the change we talk about, this "invisible tsunami" we have referred to in an earlier missive, is a change so profound it will indeed change the whole course of humanity. For what happened during those auspicious days of December 2012 was nothing short of a life altering change within, where the core in every human being was touched by that divine light coming in, and by that, was ignited in a way that will never be extinguished again. And this flame will grow in strength, and it in turn will affect the whole of your being in a way that will ensure that this world of yours will never be the same again. For love came in and washed away the dirt that hid this little gem you all carry inside, and when it did that, it ensured that this hidden gem will start to glow and be detected by you all. Some will choose to ignore it, and carry on in the same manner as before. But for most, this inner glow has already started to have an effect. For you will start to see yourselves, and indeed the whole world around you, in a very different light indeed. And with this knowledge comes power, the power to be the change you so desperately need.

So take this as a confirmation that you have all moved forwards a considerable way already, and even if by outward appearances, nothing has changed, the truth is that nothing will ever be the same again. For the ember you have all carried within from the beginning of time has now caught fire, and this fire will burn away any doubt you might have as to how powerful you really are. For you carry the power of love within, and now, that is what will determine the course of mankind, not that old and outdated system of fear that used to hold you back. So celebrate yourselves again dear ones, as you have all become true carriers of light, and by that, we mean that it is not just a few brave souls like yourselves who have held the flame aloft that will carry the responsibility for the future of this planet. For you have indeed been joined by millions of your fellow men. And while you will still be the leaders and show others the way ahead, know that whenever you will look over your shoulder, you will see a multitude of likeminded souls starting to follow in your wake, and help to push the changes you so desperately want to come about.

You have come a long way since those dark days of December, and even if many of you still struggle to see – or rather feel – the difference, there is indeed so much that is different, it is as if you have entered a whole new world. Let us explain.

As usual, on the surface, much will seem to be exactly the same as the last time you opened your eyes, and this will indeed go on for quite a long time. But underneath this superficial layer of illusion that still meets your mind whenever you awaken from your sleep, there is something completely different going on. And the difference is by no means a superficial one, but a profound one. For what has transpired, is a change that has literally taken you all by storm, and swept away all of the vestiges of not only last year, but your last existence. For what has happened is such a major shift it has left no one untouched by it all. But for anyone familiar with the word "drag" in all of its implications, the results from all of this will take some time to be visible on the surface. For just as the sluggish and heavy outer layer of your planet takes a much longer time to adjust to any movements coming from within, so too it is with all of you. And even if your inner core has been transmuted from a dense and dark matter into a light and shining and fluid one, it will take some time before these same attributes percolate all the way to the top, or rather, to the outside world. So yes, you have all changed beyond recognition, but as in everything concerning someone like you residing inside a physical body, outward change takes time.

This does not mean that nothing will change in a very short amount of time, for already so much has, but unless you know how to look for it, it will as always stay out of sight for the majority of humans. But we know that for many of you, these outward appearances of the inward evolution have already started to seep out, and you can tell by the minutest of changes literally in the air that something is afoot. And the most effective way of tuning in to all of these changes, is if you let your mind to rest and let your heart do the surveying. For it will have no problem in spotting these fundamental changes taking place, not only within you, but in everything you see around you.

We say this as a reminder that even if your impatience seems to be more prominent than any changes at the moment, know that this is not true. For your impatience is only masking the fact that you have already started to breathe a fresher air, and there is indeed more lightness in your step than it was before. And this will only become more and more pronounced, as the inner revolution so to speak starts to work more and more on the sluggish movement of the rest of your body, and through that, the rest of your environment. And this is in no way any criticism, as this is just a natural way for this process to take place. For that is indeed how it has all been set up, by changing from within, in the flash of an eye, to the gradual, almost imperceptible change that is already taking place all around you.

For know that one day you will all wake up to a totally changed world, all the way from your core and out through your very atmosphere. But know also that for many, they will not even be aware that this change has taken place, for they will just wake up as usual and believe that this wonderful world has always been there. So yes, this is indeed an instantaneous change, but also a very gradual one, as it has already taken place, but it is also under way. In other words, this is a process taking place in more than one timeline simultaneously, therefore your ability to understand it and perceive it will be determined on just what level you currently are able to tune in to. For some, they will only be able to distinguish one of these levels, the one you currently refer to as "reality". But for others, they will be able to get a much more detailed view of the proceedings, and for them, this will unfold in a very fascinating and somewhat complex way. For, as we said, this has already taken place, and the process is indeed already complete, but at the same time, the seed has just been sown, and is only now starting to sprout.

We know we speak in somewhat convoluted terms, but just know that this process cannot go wrong, for it is already a success, and even if you at the moment may feel a little bit lost and "out of it", know that this is not the case. You are all traveling at full speed towards the point where everything will be more than crystal clear to you, and you will indeed be able to experience the full spectrum of this wonderful creation. So even if the colors, and even the light, might seem to be a bit pale at the moment, know that this is literally only a trick of the light. For it is all there, ready for you to immerse yourself completely in it all when the time is right for you to do so. And when is that, we hear you ask. Well, let us just say that the answer to that is as always "soon". We say this, knowing fully well that this is perhaps the most unwanted word we can give you, but this is indeed nothing that can be described by any measure of time that you can come up with. For, as we said, this is a task that covers multiple timelines, and as such, yours is perhaps the least accurate of them all. So let us just leave it at that, and remind you again that all is well, and you are exactly where you are supposed to be at this time and place.