

Part 41

We would like to continue this discussion on the nature of those of us still waiting in the wings as it were, ready to make ourselves noticed in a very short time. We know that our presence is one that is much discussed amongst those of you still trying to find your way through this haze of awakening, as this part of the story is one that will make many shake their heads in disbelief.

We are also aware that to many, the thought of other kinds of intelligences besides yours is one of terror, as this has been instilled in so many of you by those benefiting from this sentiment. No matter, they are themselves of just the same non-earthly origin as the rest of us, and as they were the ones that corrupted you in the first place, it will only be in their best interest to try to detain you from making any sort of contact with us. For if you do, they will know that their grip on your minds and hearts will be lost forever. Let us just say that the day for their final vanquishing is not far off now, and before it finally arrives, so many of you will already had the pleasure of being reunited with the rest of us. It is indeed a day we are all longing to see, and as such we cannot wait for your eyes to finally be opened to this, your final frontier as it were.

In the interim, we will of course do our utmost to make the waiting time as fruitful as possible, and even if the side-effects from all of this may be a bit tiresome at times, we hope you will all find solace in the fact that everything you are going through at the moment energywise is sure to foreshorten this process in so many ways.

Let us explain. As we have mentioned already, we are at the moment fine tuning not only your physical bodies, but also your mental capacity so that they will both be performing at the ultimate level as soon as the lid is lifted and the main part of the show gets on it's way. That is so important, because without all of these preparations, you would be hard pressed to stay upright through the last part of your transformation. As you know so well by now, this process will be facilitated by a very, very intense outburst of energy that will literally burn away the last vestiges of the old grid holding you back, and without these prior insertions of advance portions of energy, you would very likely fall under the spell of a mountain of fear, generated by those still clinging to the remnants of their old lives. But for you, the dawn of the new day will only bring relief, and as such we think you all will understand the need for this intense tuning process beforehand.

And now, we would like to return to the role we, your constant companions if we may use a description you are already familiar with, play in this process. We are in many ways a very mixed group indeed, as we are comprised of entities gathered from all corners of the multiverse. We all have our special missions and responsibilities. Some of us are designated to communicate directly with you, either through a channel such as the one we are utilizing at the moment, or by other, more direct ways. In other words, we use both a "public channel" to convey messages meant for the masses, but we also at times communicate directly with each and every one of you by diverse means. Some of this communication comes in the form of words, others are more subtle and mayhaps less noticed by the receiver, but every form of communication is indeed imperative for the work we do.

We also use words to imprint other, more esoteric forms of energy into your system, and we think you have all felt this to be true one time or another when you have found a message that have affected you very strongly, either emotionally or physically. At times, the most powerful messages come hidden in a seemingly inconspicuously worded message, and we say this as a reminder that you might find yourselves profoundly affected by something that others may not even notice. This is because you are all singing to a different tune, and as such it is important to remember that yours is not comparable to any other's, but each and every one of you are just as important in that beautiful choir of voices now emanating from your planet.

Our role is to direct you all to perform to the best of your abilities, and this we do in several different ways. Besides informing you of the progress of this process, we are also joined by members of other groups of entities who are here with a very different task. Theirs is the task of making sure that every last vestige of the darkness tainting your atmosphere will be washed away once and for all, and as such they are a formidable army indeed. Yes, certainly in this aspect army is the best description to use, as they are indeed true warriors of the light, and as such their powers will be used extensively.

They have already seen more battles than you could ever imagine, as those dark overlords of yours have been dragging their heels and trying to hold on for a very long time already, but to no avail. They are indeed already defeated, but they try their hardest to make it look like they still have a hold of your hearts and minds. But we all know that it is only a matter of time before they will all have to admit that their time here on earth is over, and until then these brave warriors will have their hands full fighting on behalf of not only you, but for the rest of creation. And fight they will, as they are more than eager to prove that the darkness can never, ever outrun the light.

Let us focus on another interesting fact concerning this multitude of entities currently hovering above and beside you. As we already mentioned, we all hail from very different locations, spread out in the multiverse as it were, but we all have some things in common. We all answer to the same command, namely that of the All there is, the underlying, all-pervading energy that is manifest in everything existing, both in a defined form, but also in that vast ocean of possibilities.

Let us explain. We are envoys from different cultures, all gathered together to work for the common good, as deemed by the force of light that is the only source of existence anywhere. In other words, also those deemed as darkened wrongdoers emanated from this same forcefield once, but along the way they made a conscious decision to split away from this guiding light. and took upon themselves to establish a parallel world were they could live out their skewed dreams. That was tolerated at first, as they were not deemed to be of harm to anyone else but themselves, but as they decided to spread their sphere of interest, so also did their actions start to interfere with other, more peaceful existences. This has been deemed as too invasive, and to cut a long story short, it was decided at the very top level to put a stop to this experiment. In other words, to increase the amount of light in these dark corners in order to flush out any unsound behaviour once and for all. And in order to carry out this process, a large taskforce was put together.

And now, this taskforce has finally arrived on your shores. We have of course had our scouts out surveying the landscape as it were for quite a long time, and their actions have been felt in many ways, but now the main part of this taskforce is stationed out, and we have started the final part of this operation. This force is comprised of many, many different beings, all specialists in one field or another, and we are all well used to co-operate as this comes natural for all of us. You see, we are all hailing from societies were each and every one of us have been raised to think of themselves as an important part of an immense creation, much like the different cells in your body.

We are all individuals, but it is not for our individual fulfillment we exist, it is for the joy of the collective. In other words, we carry out our existence joyfully collaborating with our brethren, creating a harmonious whole that benefits us all. Therefore, putting together this immense and complex taskforce was not a challenge, as we all know our places in this well-oiled machinery, and we do not have to compete for the control. That is exactly the way of organizing yourselves you will resort to as well, as soon as this heavy fog of fear and insecurity has lifted, and we are certainly looking forward to welcoming you all into the fold as it were.

We do have a chain of command, we are indeed very well organized thus, but this does not imply a structure whereby someone gets awarded more importance than others. It is only set up as the most practical way of making sure that everything goes forth as planned. In other words, although it may be perceived as a sort of hierarchy from the outside, we do not see it as such, only as a structure or channel of directing the right amount of energy in the right direction. So, we come as equals, and we invite you to join us as equals. We think you will find that this is indeed a far superior way of living, where no one can hoist themselves above anyone else, and certainly not at the expense of others.

In addition, we are also well versed in communicating with all the different entities, no matter what kind of "language" they prefer to express themselves in. You might find it odd that most of the words you receive in channelings like these arrives in the language defined as english, especially since many of the channels we use do not have this as their first language. Let us just say that it was chosen as the main mode of communication on and with your planet, and as such let us also add that it was mayhaps not a decision entirely left up to you. In other words, this language does in fact also harken from a shore a tad more exotic than the ones where it was first spoken on your planet, and as such it is indeed an even more "universal language" than it is perceived to be by you humans at the moment. Let us just say that the seed that was sown into the minds of your ancestors came from the outside, much like so much of the other information you all carry hidden in your memorybanks.

Of course there are a multitude of different ways of communicating in addition to the oral mode, and many of you have had some experience in these non-verbal modes of communication. You will find your abilities to communicate thusly enhanced through this process you are currently undergoing, and as such you will all be well equipped to interact with all the different kinds of entities you might encounter as the time goes by. But for now, we will indeed concentrate on serving you information in this way, namely that of the written word.

In addition, you will of course receive ample amounts of information energetically. So rest assured that although intense, these waves of energy that soon will be unleashed upon your planet will in fact carry with them so much vital programming, we think you will find it worth your while, even if the process of downloading them into your systems will be rather on the unpleasant side. We say this in order to prepare you for the intensity. It will be high indeed, but the outcome will certainly make it easier to bear.

---

Part 42

The lesson today will in many ways pick up from the last one, as we would like to give you more details on our whereabouts and just who we are. As we have mentioned, most of us are currently stationed aboard large, animate vessels hovering above your planet, and let us just say that the number of these vehicles would astound you. On the day they finally will become visible to your eyes and brains, you will probably go down on your knees in awe. Yes, they are numerous, and some of them are of such large proportions it will seem almost impossible.

We know that many of you have seen something taken as our crafts whizzing by in the skies often times, but know that these are mere specks compared to what is really present here. But how can we fill your skies without being detected you might ask, and the reason for this is indeed a simple one. Remember, we can change from one timeline to the next in the blink of an eye, and also travel between the multitude of dimensions you are currently unable to see. All of these dimensions and timelines are seamlessly intervoven in the same dimension of space, if we may call it that, and as such when you look up at your skies you only see one of a large number of layers superimposed upon one another. We can perceive all of them at the same time, therefore we have no problem staying out of sight while keeping perfect control of what is going on in your plane of existence at the same time. In other words, it is possible for us to stay concealed at all times, but impossible for you to hide from view.

This may sound scary, but remember that we are not here to control you as the more sinister meaning of this word entails, but to free you from the control you are already being held hostage by, so our surveillance is only to make sure that this process of regaining your freedom will go as planned. And up until now we must say that everything has indeed more than surpassed our expectations. Much thanks to you all. You have taken upon you so much hard work already, and you have all pulled more than your fair share to the stack. In other words, you as a collective have managed to receive and distribute such a vast amount of light energy, this globe of yours is already shining so brightly it literally lightens us all up.

It may be hard to see it from your perspective at the moment, as the doom and gloom purveyors are still hard at the task of spreading their message of a global breakdown, when the fact is that this collapse of the old straitjacket of a corrupt monetary system is actually caused by this brightening of your hearts and minds. It is the light inherent in everyone and everything that is finally starting to shine through the cracks in this rotten foundation, and as such it is literally blowing it all to pieces. In other words, nothing could herald this bright dawn more clearly than the collapse of these old and dark structures, but remember that so many of your fellow citizens will still see it as a collapse of everything they know, and therefore go into an ever larger sense of fear. And they will act accordingly, for as long as they refuse to let that light starting to shine ever brighter inside of them to literally light their way out of despair, they are apt to react in a violent fashion.

Do not be surprised if a large number actually do so, but do not let that diminish the light in your heart. In fact, let that be a lesson to react in the opposite way, namely by shining your light ever brighter. That is your only task, as you have been told earlier. You are the beacons from which others may navigate, and as such do not be afraid to shine even if all around you try to dampen your light in every way they can. And our task is indeed to help you by supplying all the fuel you will need to keep this beautiful light of yours burning in the strongest of tempests. And that is why we are here, as suppliers of fuel in any way we can. Some of it will come in words, and some of it will come as pure and strong energy in the form of different kinds of vibration, and some of the most effective fuel will come by contact. In other words, we are here to help you remember just who you are, and an important part of this remembering process is to actually meet your own kind in one way or another.

These "meet and greet" sessions are already well under way, and many of you have started to have lingering memories of some sort of encounters, mayhaps after a long night's sleep or after an especially deep meditation. We are all intent on making this a "soft landing" as it were, therefore it is indeed imperative that we pull aside the veils in a way that will make it easier to digest for you all. If not, you would be prone to going into fear, as we represent all manners of beings and we do not all look like you do when we look at ourselves in the mirror. Again, you have been well programmed to fear anything that may seem to be of alien origin as you like to call it, and as such we will do everything we can in order to put you all at ease during this reconnection process. Therefore, try to remember that the remnants of these encounters will at first seem to be more or less like any other dream you might normally have, especially the visual memories, but when the time is right, we will all start to show our true colours as it were, and then you of course will start to see yourselves in a very different light as well. In other words, you will also start to see who you are behind that human facade, and even if this may sound very, very frightening to some at the moment, remember that deep in your hearts you are all so very aware of your origins, and as such once the scales fall away you will be overcome by joy, not by fear.

Part 43

Today we would like to address another topic altogether, namely that of the opening of the portals as so many of you refer to. As you are well aware, the number designating your dates sometimes show up some very interesting combinations, and in a few days you will all see the date you refer to as 11.11.11. To many, this will indeed herald that something big is under way, and they are not far from the truth. However, it is important to know that these markers are only a small part of the programming you are going through at the moment, and as such these "special days" you like to refer to are only but a fraction of this vast period of change.

Remember that you humans are so attached to your concept of time, and as such these dates are only something conceived in your minds according to what calendar you go by. We, as already mentioned, go by a totally different concept of time, and therefore we do not use these kind of numbers to assign different "flavours" if you will to different periods of time. However, such as it is, we have of course taken this into account when we set up this plan originally, therefore we will use these dates as a sort of useful "countdown" and as a very effective way of making sure that as many of you as possible connect on specific days.

As you well know, next year holds a date that many fear, namely the so-called "end of time" on December the 21. You have already been inundated with much fearmongering concerning this date, and we hope you have all seen past this propaganda. There are no dates assigned as the "end of the world", but you are already well on your way towards the completion of this dark cycle, and as such the "end of the world" only heralds the end of time for those currently ruling too many hearts and minds by the fear that they generate.

It is not the first time that doomsday has been heralded, it has been a recurring theme for so-called soothsayers for generations, but as you are all well aware of by now, they have certainly missed their mark on every occasion. So too this time, but do not underestimate the power generated by so many enlightened souls coming together on these special dates. Therefore, be prepared to be somewhat swept off your feet from what will transpire in this upcoming week, for you are indeed heading for a massive manifestation of beautiful energies finally being unleashed on your planet. We have told you before to be vigilant and always look behind the crumbling facade of the old and corrupt systems so as not to overlook all of the seemingly tiny specks of light and hope surfacing all around you.

We predict that in the days and weeks ahead these specks will grow to ever larger patches of brilliant light, and even if the doomsayers still will shout out their message of destruction, do not believe them. For as the old finally falls apart, so will the new and strong and living organism that is your new world finally start to take her first breath, assisted by all of you birth-helpers reaching in and finding your own powers when so many around you lose theirs in the upcoming turmoil.

This day fast approaching is already attracting the interest of so many of your fellow citizens, and we think you will find that it will in many ways touch the lives of everyone currently residing on this planet. As we were saying, it will act as a sort of focal point that will pull together the combined efforts of so many lightworkers, and as such the incoming energies on that day will not only be received in so many fertile minds, it will also be magnified by all of those already attuned to these influxes. In other words, those of you consciously working to spread the light will act as transponders, so that these energywaves will be circulated in a very distinct pattern that will ensure maximum effect on each and every one of your fellow humans.

As we have already touched upon, now the time has come to start to activate all, not only those already shining at their own volition, but we need the participation of all of those enlightend souls already stationed out as a grid across the globe. You will all in other words be working very hard for the benefit of everyone and everything around you, and as such we would like to take this opportunity to impress upon you the magnitude of the work you will be a part of. This will mean everything to your species, as without all of you it would not be possible to succeed in turning this planet of yours away from the darkness and into the light.

You have been the pioneers, bravely going into uncharted territory on your own, and now we will, with your help, make sure that many, many of your fellow human beings will start to follow in your footsteps. And not a moment too soon. Time is running out, and we want to make it absolutely clear that now the most important part of this plan is fast approaching. Do not for a moment think that you are unimportant, and that you are a lonesome traveller in the cosmos. You are an integrated part of this whole machinery, and without you we could not get ahead. Therefore, pat yourselves on the back for all of the hard work you have already accomplished, as you have more than ample reason to be proud.

In addition, be prepared to be challenged in the days ahead, as the most decisive phase is rapidly approaching. Just remember you are not alone in doing this important work. Look around you, and you will find a multitude of groups already hard at work doing the groundwork and preparing for this upcoming week. They are of very diverse backgrounds, and they cover the entire globe. Some of the goings on are currently hidden from view, as much of these preparations are being done by different indigenous groups, fulfilling a prophecy they have been keeping as a secret for generations. But now they all know that the time has come to open up and show the world that we are all standing in front of a massive change, a change that will involve each and every one of you.

We applaud these caretakers of your future, as they are the ones that have kept the flame alive throughout countless years of oppression. Now the cloak of secrecy will be lifted, and the rest of the earth's inhabitants will finally see the core strength of these peoples. They have carried this burden voluntarily for you all, and now they will invite you all to help share the load. And believe us when we say that this load will be easy to carry, as you will soon start to see the effects of all of this loving labour as the energies coming from the cosmos fuse with those unleashed by ancient invocations being uttered for the very first time in generations.

You as a species are much beholden to these ancient peoples, and it gladdens us to know that now the time has come for all of you to see this with your own eyes. Rewards awaits those patient souls who have kept the hopes alive through centuries of hardship, and we want you all to stand up and take your rightful place in this, the final march for freedom. The time has come to show your true colors, and be a part of the procession of enlightened souls marching proudly into the new dawn. You have certainly earned your place, but do not forget that your work is by no means over just yet.

---

Part 44

Activity is increasing on many planes at the moment, and some of it have started to seep through to your reality as well. Do not think that anything is amiss if you have not personally witnessed anything out of the ordinary, but rest assured that each and every one of you will be taken behind the veil to get a glimpse of the working of this incredible manifestation.

Again, do not think that your brains will register it in the "normal" way, as most of you are still a way off being able to digest all of the information you will receive while you are on our side of the fence. This is only as a measure to protect you, as you might go into overload if you were to remember everything you see while you are a visitor to our shores, but rest assured that time is not long now before you can and will be able to do so.

Remember, as always timing is everything, and you will not be able to get ahead of yourselves as it were. This does not mean that you will be kept in the dark forever, quite the opposite, and there is indeed a growing number of you already able to remember quite accurately what has transpired "on the other side", and this number is indeed growing by the day. We only want you to be absolutely sure that as always, patience is the golden rule, as you cannot push anything ahead of it's time.

Now over to something else completely. As we were saying, activities are indeed picking up speed, and the magnitude of recent events may have gone unnoticed by most of you. Let us give you a short recap, and a little peek into what's in store in these upcoming days. The earth has been shaking again, and also erupting in places. In other words, mother earth has started her welcoming show. It will be magnificent indeed, but also scary to many, as they tend to see all of mother earth's natural cycles of activities as something akin to disasters. They are no such thing, as we have already mentioned. In fact, everything that happens both on her outside but also internally is carefully tailored with a specific outcome in mind. She does not intend to harm anyone, but as humans tend to have their own mind as to where to reside and build their lodgings, they will most often than not get in the way of her cleansing processes. And remember, this process is of the highest importance at the moment, as she is also getting ready to shed the last vestiges of accumulated dirt and grime that has marred her beautiful face for far too long.

Do not let this get you down, as we do not refer to anything like the armageddon that so many of your self-styled prophets have alluded to on many an occasion, but on the other hand she will make quite an effort to ensure that she will be restored back to her once pristine shape. We do hasten to add that this does not entail removing the last remnants of the human species as well, as you are certainly being invited to join us in celebrating her newfound freedom that is not too far off now. But again, the road towards this bright new day will be a bumpy one indeed, and for some it will be considered too strenuous to complete. Again, that will be their choice, and not something that any outside force can or will decide.

This is not news to any of you, but we will repeat it at regular intervals as there still are those out there convinced that theirs is the task to ensure the wellbeing and literal survival of so many others. That is indeed not the case, but if they choose to take on that role of their own volition, we think they will soon find that the burden is much too heavy for anyone to shoulder. You are only here to carry your own weight, and we will not and cannot ask for more.

As we were saying, although events of a certain magnitude have already occurred, much is going on unnoticed by the masses. That is because so many have their eyes riveted on the frantic goings on at the forefront of the news, that is to say all of those men and women in suits trying desperately to mend the broken chalice of their world of finance and power. They can see that their powers are running out literally between their fingers, but they are all blind to the fact that another power is slowly but steadily gaining strength behind their backs. The power we are referring to, is the power currently growing ever stronger inside all of you, the so-called "little people", the ones these other power players – for that is in fact what they are, mere players in this illusion – these power figures have long since cast away any thoughts implying that it is in fact all of these "little people" that hold the power to the future. You are the ones that will soon be ready to stand up and take back your rightfully earned freedom from these figurines that have for far too long held you back with their fancy talk and obsessive use of fear and bewilderment. But not for long now, as behind this carefully manicured facade something very interesting is going on, and the momentum of this movement is gaining by the hour.

Do not be fooled by what the mass media portray, as they will only show the usual doom and gloom, but watch closely and you will soon start to see the light emanating through the cracks there as well. It is like the first drops on the outside of the dam. At first, they will be taken for nothing more than drops of condensation, and as such they will be easily forgotten. Then, behind everyone's backs, the slow force of the water working its way through the embankment will soon push through, and the first trickle will be visible. Then, it is only a matter of time before the whole dam breaks down and the force of the amassed water finally breaks loose from the old boundaries.

That is what is happening on your planet right now dear ones, and in a few days the trickle will gather so much momentum from the outside energies that will start to slam relentlessly into your little globe from all around you. Then the waters will start to flow freely, and they can never again be held back within the strict confines they have been imprisoned behind for far too long. And remember, this is not a flood that will drown humanity, it is indeed the flood of humanity that will finally cover the globe in freedom. You are a part of this great flood of light that will help the waters of humanity to freedom sweet souls, and we are all looking forward to the liberation. It is already looming on the horizon, so we implore you not to give up and sink below the surface of despair even if it seems that hope itself is about to drown now in the darkest of days before the light will return to your planet once again. And this time, it will indeed return for good.

---

Part 45

We would like to give you a short update on the incoming energies currently hurtling into your planet, as they are of an extraordinary caliber. Many have already felt the impact from these energies, so we would like to convey this important message: Remember, even if they might be perceived as overly powerful and may cause your physical body to react in a seemingly intense and negative way, rest assured that this is by no means detrimental to your system in any way. You might feel otherwise, as we know that there are so many out there literally down on their knees in the throes of the after-effects of these first waves of transformational energies, but again, do not let the fear take hold of you. This is only normal, a kind of "allergic reaction" to call it that because the physical vehicle you are residing in has never before encountered vibrations of this kind.

We cannot lie to you and say that it will be over soon, as there are several more waves currently approaching your shores, some of them even more powerful than the ones you have already taken in. Do not let this bring you down, take it as a forewarning and an assurance that even if your physical body might struggle even more in these upcoming days, it will be for a good cause indeed. You are in fact being reinforced in so many ways even as we speak, and these powerful messengers of change are certainly very, very effective in changing your molecular structure into something so vastly more powerful than the old and outdated one you are literally walking around in now.

Again, these upgradings might be very, very unpleasant at times, but they are only here to act as triggers not only for your benefit, but for the rest of the human population as well. Expect to see wondrous things manifesting as direct outcome of these majestic inoculations, and find the strength to celebrate the first sign of the new dawn, even if your body implores you to do nothing but rest for a few days.

This is a day to celebrate indeed, and there will certainly be much, much more to celebrate in this upcoming period. We hope this will lessen the load somewhat, if not on your body then hopefully on your spirit. Even if you feel very heavy and lethargic at the moment, we think you can hear your soul starting to sing loud and clear through all of the background noise from the energywaves crashing onto your shores. Again, they are only heralding a new and stronger you, they are not trying to drown you, even if your body might be calling out in distress.

Focus on that joyful voice inside, and riding these escalating waves might feel just a little bit easier. It will in so many ways be the ride of your lives, dear ones. We salute you and wish you all the best in these intense but joyful days ahead.

---

Part 46

We would like to take this opportunity to give you more details on the ongoing process of upgrading that is currently affecting your bodies in so many ways. As we stated earlier, this process is by no means over, and we do predict that many of you will feel the onslaughts from these intense barrages of energies for quite a few days yet. In other words, that magical date of 11.11.11 did not signal the end of your trials and tribulations, but it was indeed an important day as it managed to merge the energies from so many of your fellow human beings into a focal point that intensified the effect of all of the amassed energy.

Not only on the energies emanating from your own personal energyfields thus connected, it also had a very beneficial effect on all of the incoming energy that was blasted into your atmosphere from the surrounding cosmos. This has had a dramatic effect not only on your physical bodies but also on the rest of creation here on your little planet, whether they are living and breathing creatures or of more inert material. In other words, never before has your planet aquired such a load of benevolent energies, energies that will play an important role in the next phase of this operation.

We are well pleased by the results already, and we are all looking forward to seeing just how effective these new energies will be in escalating the current movements to such an extent that they will literally wash over the entire globe in the next few days and weeks.

As always, there are many out there suffering from heavy bouts of physical symptoms from all of these enormous loads of energy pumping through their bodies, and we hasten to repeat yet again that we do implore you to stay out of fear, even if your body seems to be falling apart at the seams at times. Remember, it takes time to adjust to all of these new frequencies, and the frequencies you are currently bathing in cannot be compared to anything you have ever been in contact with before. So, as you can understand, it is not by accident if your physical body is showing many distress signals at the moment, but we ask you to consider it as merely a signal of rebuilding, not destruction.

The usual symptoms of aches and pains will be very prevalent in the upcoming days, and also many instances of cleansing either through the digestive system or more emotionally, in other words expect to encounter bouts of sorrow and maybe even tears, but rest assured that this is only symptoms of old and outdated energies leaving your bodies to make space for all of these new and literally energizing energies. Think of it as a thorough spring cleaning, even if the calendar is a long time off from spring at the moment.

Again, do not despair if you feel it very difficult to keep focus at the moment, and if you find yourself somewhat lost and confused. Know that this is only a natural part of this process, and hopefully you will find strength in the knowledge that you are all swimming in the same choppy waters at the moment. You are in other words not alone in this, and we will do all we can to help you all to literally keep your heads above water in this upcoming period.

Do not fall back into the old ways and think that everything is lost because you fail to see any positive outcome at the moment. This has never been advertised as the easiest path to travel, and as we have mentioned again and again this, the last and final passage, is the one most fraught with challenges. Keep breathing and connecting with your heart, and all will be well, and remember to reach out to others that you know till be able to help you strengthen your resolve to keep going forwards to matter what transpires in the next few days.

Those that will try to drag you down must be avoided at all cost, as they are the ones refusing to see that although things may seem bleak on the outside, they are currently looking ever more positive to the trained eye. You have in other words successfully managed to clear one more important hurdle on your way to freedom, but the fallout from this giant leap will plague you for a few more days. Do not let that dampen your spirits more than necessary, and know that this seemingly slump in the stream of events is a carefully planned part of the whole process.

You are in other words just where you are supposed to be, and we must say that we are all well pleased by the mighty effort being carried out by you all. Keep up the good work sweet souls, and you will find yourself in smoother waters in a not too distant future.

---

Part 47

As you are well aware of by now, you have entered a somewhat confusing period. By that, we mean that you will all feel the pull from home very diminished, especially compared to last week. Let us explain.

As we told you earlier, this period will indeed be fraught with many challenges, not only of the physical kind. We would think that your mind will be playing many tricks on you at the moment, and the reason for this cannot be easy to ascertain to those of you still residing in the "old world" as it were.

You were all expecting so much to change after the intense build up of pressure last week, and so much did, but it can be very, very hard to see from your perspective. We are all celebrating a grand success, but you have somehow gotten it into your minds that it was a resounding failure of some sort. The reason for this is easy to explain: as you were so intensely monitored and programmed only a few days ago, this seemingly never ending silence in the aftermath of this grand operation must feel very disconcerting indeed.

We understand fully well your reasons to feel somewhat abandoned, but as we told you earlier you are anything but. We are at all times monitoring you closely, but for now, we have carefully chosen to take a step back as it were and follow you all from a distance. In other words, you cannot feel our presence and reassurance as intensely as only a few days ago, and this will in many ways throw you into confusion. Please try to disconnect from this feeling, as it is only a feeling and not a reality.

However, you will feel this "distance" for quite a few days yet, but believe us when we say that it is indeed a necessity and a carefully planned one at that. We have our reasons, but we will as usual refrain from giving you any details. Please, have faith and again, muster all of the patience you have, as otherwise this part of the journey will indeed be the most taxing one for you all. That is all we have for now, we will of course return later on with more.

---

Part 48

Fret not even if the days seem overly heavy, and you are indeed struggling mightily to keep your physical body at ease. Know that all is well, and that you have in fact just surpassed yourselves in achievement. Not many have accomplished such a feat as you have dear souls, and do not think that your efforts will be easily forgotten. They have already gone into the annals as humanity's triumphant moment, when the darkness was cast away forever and the light finally penetrated you all.

On the surface, much will seem to be the same old, but underneath everything and everyone have changed beyond recognition. We see this, and we rejoice. You see only continuous suffering, and you despair. We implore you all to see beyond this shimmering surface of disrepair and conflict, and go deep into your very souls where you will certainly find the answers to all of your anguished questions.

Nothing will ever be the same after this, and although the surface will move at a very sluggish pace in order to catch up with that ever shining core of you all, it will have no choice but to do so. In other words, hold on and be strong, you cannot be defeated now, only by your own frailty of conviction. We want you all to know that you have won the hard fought battle for freedom, but the outcome is still hidden behind the cloak of darkness covering your globe. Know that this is only smoke, and it will be blown away as soon as the time is right to do so. Not to prolong your suffering dear ones, but to make sure that everything is indeed ready and fully operative once this smokescreen dissolves.

It is not for your eyes this blanket of darkness is still in place, it is for those unaware of the monumental change you have all been through. They cannot see it, therefore they will all be caught unawares once the truth is let out, and as such they will be unable to fend off the new reality. They are trying their hardest to stick to the reality they have created for themselves, and in their world there is only crisis. Your only crisis would be a crisis of faith, therefore we will be in constant contact with you in order to keep your spirits up, both literally and figuratively.

Remember this is a time when your wills will be sorely tested, and know therefore that you are already victorious, even if your body and mind will try to tell you otherwise. It takes a mighty show of strength to keep going even if everything around you seems to be still mired in the old and failed mode, so remember that this is only an illusion. What you see is not what you will get.

What you feel inside, when you go into that silent but jubilant core, is what the future holds in store for you. Do not loosen your grip on this truth, and you will successfully navigate the upcoming storms. We are as always by your side, but it is your own strong core that will keep you afloat. We raise our voices in a jubilant choir as we once again applaud your efforts. You are the sovereign beings of your own souls, and you have finally wrestled the last grain of your future away from your old controllers. What a mighty show that was! And now we will leave you to ponder these words, but rest assured that we will return at the earliest convenience.

---

Part 49

As many of you have noticed lately, things may seem to be moving at a very sluggish pace, but do not let yourselves be fooled by outward appearances. We are well aware that our sense of time differs considerably from yours, therefore you may have a hard time coming to grips with the fact that there are indeed monumental changes going on even as we speak, even if you cannot detect any of them from your perspective.

Let us elaborate: You have recently gone through a very, very important and let us just say life-changing event, but on the surface, everything will look the same to you. For many, the disappointment may be vast, as there are so many tried and sorely tested souls out there who had staked their hopes on a let us just call it "quick fix" that was supposed to occur just a short week ago. Well, things were indeed "fixed", but as you might be aware of, in your realms it looks more or like as if it is "business as usual". There is a very simple explanation for this, as you are all like members of a theater troupe currently playing out the same old play you have all been forced to be a part of for generations, and as you know the saying is: "the show must go on".

In other words, those that have put you all into this role as human beings – or let us be a bit more blunt and call you puppets – these puppeteers of yours are doing their darndest to keep up the pretense even if their whole house of cards is falling around them. And for those still doing blindly as instructed, all is well.

However, for those of you already busy tearing off the strings that have been manipulating you for far too long, the wait can be endless as you still feel trapped in this worn-out charade and with no way out in sight. You have our fullest sympathy, as to the blind the absence of darkness is not noticeable. But for those already opening their eyes, it can be very, very daunting when they fail to see the bright light they so hanker for.

Will you believe us when we say that the light is already here and waiting for you? For some, it has already arrived, as they have found a way to see through the murkiness and apprehend the dawn behind the veil, but for so many others that are still stumbling into unseen walls, we have only this message: do not give up! We know these words may fall on barren ground, and that many will feel abandoned and lost as they see themselves facing an ever steeper uphill slope, but we do implore you to keep going.

Easy for you to say you might think, as we are mere spectators to this mighty strength of wills. Be that as it may, but that is all we can offer at the moment, namely reassurance that all is indeed exactly as it should be, and that the end of your freedom struggle is so much closer than you could ever imagine. You have won the battle with the darkness, now the last and final battle with your self is imminent.

Remember, things will be much worse before they get any better, and now we refer to the state of your precariously balanced society. It has been build upon that most fleeting of foundations, namely that of greed and envy, and now it is all crashing down. Again, many will only see the collapse of the old, but they will not or cannot see that this actually signals the start of the bright and new. If you lose sight of this, then the going will be tough indeed, mayhaps too tough for many. But for those already feeling the breath of fresh air that has started to penetrate the murky atmosphere of your claustrophobic surroundings, it will signal the end of all of your sorrows. We know that in your heart of hearts, so many of you are in the latter group, and we know that you will soon rejoice with the rest of us.

---

Part 50

As you can well understand, tempers are running high in many places. People are starting to wake up to the fact that something is amiss, and as usual they are the ones that will carry the heaviest burden in the times to come.

Let us explain. Your societies have been set up in a very specific way, namely that of benefiting a few at the expense of the rest of you. Now those few at the top are starting to see their empires crumbling away before them, and they have decided to put up a mighty fight in order to save it from obliteration. They are fighting a lost battle, but that is unbeknownst to them at the moment, as they are indeed totally blind as to where this planet of yours is heading.

You have made a monumental shift, and as a result the decline of the old system is inevitable. But the rulers cannot see that, and they are adamant in trying to salvage whatever is left of their dark empires. And they will go to any length to do so, even something as drastic as starting a war is not beyond their scope of feasibility at this stage. They have not learned anything from the recent fall of their fellow usurpers, beside the fact that it seems to pay off to use brute force in any way to quell any sign of unrest amongst their vassals. But that is not the way to go, as it will ensure even more fuel to the flame of freedom residing in everyone's hearts, and that flame is burning ever brighter by the day.

Violence is never the answer to anything, and no matter how many brave souls who give their lives in these upcoming upheavals, the river of likeminded souls will run ever stronger. In other words, no weapons are more inefficient than fear and violence, as they only serve to undermine those that apply these weapons on their fellow men. But that will not stop them from trying, as they have yet to learn the lesson that their time is swiftly coming to an end, and only those ready to turn around and open their eyes and hearts and join the swell of enlightened souls will be on the winning side when the smoke clears.

Their modus operandi is becoming ever clearer, as one by one the countries in Europe is being brought to its knees by the demands of the so-called world of finance. Under the pretext of saving a particular country, they go in and make their own set of rules, regardless of the impact this will have on that nation's inhabitants. Look around you, and see what is happening as the principles of democracy is blatantly overruled by the financial institutions.

The outcome will be a messy one indeed, and the time has come for these nations to stand up and demand their freedom from these tightfisted oppressors. Watch as the peoples unite as they see their very lives crumbling under the heels of these moneysharks, and they will take to the streets in numbers hitherto unseen on your planet. This will indeed spread like wildfire, as more and more of your fellow men finally wake up to the fact that they have been willing fodder in the machinery of big business, but now the time has come to stand up and voice a resounding NO when these implacable insatiable moneylenders calls for ever more of their dwindling resources. Remember, you are the 99%, they are but a small fraction of your numbers, but up until now they have been leading you all on a very tight leash. That leash is something you can all shake off now, if you see just how much strength it is in your numbers.

We mean this in a very literal way, as they cannot continue building their house of cards without your willingness to give them everything you have both of monetary value but also more concrete means. Without that never ending stream of your money and willingness to slave on in a hostile work environment, they will literally run out of fuel to keep their whole machinery going, and nothing scares them more than the thought of all of you rebelling against their carefully constructed parasitic world order. They will try to keep you all docilely going about business as usual, because they have told you again and again that there is no place for anyone on this planet unless they willingly put in 5 days a week at a paying job and then consume endless amounts of fuel, products, food and medicins that they themselves reap all of the profits from. Not to mention the system of finance that is rigged in such a way that they themselves call all of the shots, and the "little people" have no choice but to obey their every whim.

Let us just say that you are all in for a very rude awakening, if we may use such a word, as this system will finally be exposed in all its ugliness for everyone to see. And when you do, you will no longer be a willing participant in this never ending cycle of abusing not only nature's resources, but also those of each and every one of you. The outcome of all of this will be a magnificent one indeed, but it will take time before you see it hidden behind the smoke and ashes from the old going up in flames.

Remember you cannot even begin to imagine what you have in store once this old system is dismantled, as you have never ever experienced a world free from this heavy burden of a corrupt monetary system. Therefore, many will have a hard time believing that anything else is feasible, and they will believe the false propaganda from those trying to instill panic in you all as they see their crafty system going to pieces. We implore you to keep your heads clear and see through all of this smoke and mirrors, as we can assure you all that the time has indeed come to start unveiling the new and so much more healthier system, a system that will ensure a fair and sustainable living for all those willing to let go of fear and greed. They are the majority, even if they seem to be just a small fraction of humanity at the moment, but watch closely as more and more starts to listen to the voice of sanity and decides to shake off the lumbering weights of the old.

Many have already fallen under the wheels of this terrible machine, and they find themselves almost crushed as a result. They are no longer able to pay their bills, and they are more often than not literally swept out into the streets by a system that holds nothing but disregard for them. In other words, this system has not been set up to assure the wellbeing of the many, only to fill the pockets of the few.

Never in the history of humankind have the plights of so many been broadcasted, and now for the first time the reactions will come on a global scale. You cannot sit complacently in your own homes, unawares of the heavy price so many of your fellow citizens are paying because of this oppressive system, and now the time has come for that global uprising. This is not a call to arms, far from it, it is rather a call to the deepest instinct in each and every one of you, namely that of compassion for your fellow men.

How long will the dark ones be able to conduct their businesses, when all it does is to deplete the resources of you all? For now, they can rely on the help of the military and police to frighten you all into submission, but remember that behind all of those uniforms there beats a human heart, and for how long will that heart stay silent? How long will it continue to do the bidding of the authorities and evict innocent families from their homes? That is not their job, their job is to protect their fellow men, and it will not take long before they too awaken to the dirty truth that they have all fallen prey to the same system as the rest of you.

That day is not far off, and then the truth will be more than easy to see. You are all a part of a vast human ocean, and you cannot be stopped by a mere scattering of greedy entities hell bent on your destruction. You will take back your own power, and you will do so by reclaiming your dignity. It has been stolen from you as so much of your worldly goods, but now it is time to take it back. And remember, you might only be a small voice in a world-encompassing choir, but your voice will be invaluable.

You are all starting to sing the freedom song, and although it might sound very faint at the moment, the force of it will soon sweep away the last vestiges of darkness. Until then, know that you are being held in the highest regards by us all, as you are indeed true warriors of the truth.