

Mankind have a long history of thinking themselves inferior to almost anyone they care to compare them with, and so, they have for eons kept making themselves smaller as they go, even if their ego has become more than a little inflated. Let us explain. The grandness that is within each and every single human being has been left unexposed for far too long, and what has grown instead, is that fake simile, the hubris, the idea of superiority over every living being that this planet of yours harbour. And so, instead of seeking within to your true greatness, you have tried to stifle the feeling of inferiority by literally trampling upon everyone and everything around you, the better to get a chance to raise your head a fraction above that dank and muddy mire you have so long tried to disentangle yourself from. Well, as you all know, this inability to connect simply left you all sinking deeper and deeper into the mud, with the result that the scramble to find purchase resulted in ever more frantic and empty gestures in a futile attempt to stop the sinking, but to no avail. But then, the brightest lights amongst you suddenly realised that the only way to stop sinking, was to let go of the idea of a power struggle, and simply let yourself sink all the way down to your own core, and there, you found the leverage you needed to lift not only yourself, but also so many of your fellow men free from this battlefield of vanities and greed that so many still find themselves almost drowning in.

And so, you let go of the old ideas, those superimposed views of mankind as nothing more than a shallow beast needing to fight for their lives in a very literal way, and where the idea of the survival of the fittest had grown into a veritable feast of astounding ignorance and blindness. But you chose the other way, you chose to lift yourself up by allowing the light to permeate every single cell of your being, and doing so, you also let this light penetrate all the way down to the deepest layers of this quagmire, letting it into heart after heart in so many of those still struggling souls. And so one by one, you extricated yourselves from the mud, and one by one, you let the light sluice off every last vestige of this toxic waste that has inhibited nearly every single part of your wondrous potential, and like the seeds in the spring, you sprang into life and started to grow and evolve and stretch yourself ever further towards the stars.

And as you grew, you enabled the light to penetrate even deeper still. For just like the leaves of the plant will extract nutrition directly from the sunlight, so too did you by allowing the light to shine all the way into your very core, setting off a process much like the photosynthesis in a leaf, whereby you extracted lifeforce and nutrients directly from the incoming light and turned it into a vital substance that helped to fuel not only your growth, but was more than enough to ignite the fires of so many others around you too. For you have acted as veritable force fields dear ones, walking emitters of living energy in a way that no others have accomplished before you, and in your wake, you have left acres of newly planted fields, all primed and ready to start to blossom at a speed that will serve to take your breath away.

And now, those seeds that we have talked about in so many missives already have now been primed and set off to spring into life again, and with it, a whole new way of being human will emerge. For you will no longer be the ones that will govern their life on the lies that turned you into fear-filled beasts scrambling in the mud. You have seen that by only allowing yourself to seek sustenance from the right source will you be able to thrive, not just as individuals, but also as a whole. For you will no longer seek to climb to the top, stepping on anything and anyone you can in order to bring you just that much higher than your equals, for now, you will start to consider yourselves as equals, as you will all see that you are no more, but also certainly no less than anyone you would care to compare yourselves with – both on this planet and off it. For you will see your greatness for what it really is, and you will find your sustenance by seeking together in groups, supporting each other and lifting each other up – as a group, not as competitors, and through that, you will elevate all of mankind to that lofty perch with the most wondrous of views.

For you are not here to trample in the mud, you are here to reach for the stars in every way, and you are here to do so as a collective, where every single individual has an ingrained sense of brotherhood and belonging, and where no borders whether they be on a piece of paper or in your minds will have any jurisdiction over you ever again. For you are simply ONE, and that is what you have come to remember and that is what you have already accomplished to such a degree, you will help to pull the remainder of humanity with you into this circle of light that you have already formed. And where you have gone, is where the future lies for all of humanity, and so, for every step you have taken on this journey, you have made All of creation step forward one more step. You are the leaders, the ones that set the pace and take out the direction, and you have chosen well, dear ones, for you have chosen light and you have chosen life in the most vibrant of forms. And so again we thank you all for doing what you do and for being who you are, and we would also like to say thank you for what you are about to do. For now, the old ways and the old lies will be no more, for you will serve to disconnect your reality from that old illusion of inferiority once and for all as you step across that threshold into the infinity that awaits you all.

For the light is beckoning you to take that next step, and it will be a huge one, and it is also one you will complete with aplomb. For there is nothing or no-one standing in your way now, not even your mind, as you let yourself be lifted on the strong gusts of wind that come soaring in from Source, here to make you soar along with them to the stars and beyond, but still having your feet on the ground in a way that will bring these worlds together again after lifetimes of separation. For you will not ascend by way of floating off into space, you will ascend by bringing heaven down to Earth and make it come alive all around you. And that, dear ones, is the task you came here to fulfill, and it is a task you will literally love into becoming a reality. For this is not toil and travail, this is a labour of love, and now, the birth of the new is imminent. You are giving life to it all through your physical vehicle, and you are making a wonderful job of it, and for that we cannot thank you enough. Let us leave it at that, but not before we remind you to give yourselves all the applaud and all the acclamation you so deserve. For you are truly unique in all of Creation, and what you are allowing to come about, has not been created before anywhere in existence. So greet yourselves as the true creators you really are, and know that you deserve nothing less.

---

422

You have for a long time now been prepared to step fully back up to the helm and take over the rudder. In other words, you have been primed to reenter your roles as co-creators of this magnificent world of yours and now, we would like to add some additional information on the topic of said Creation. You see, you have in many ways been trained to focus in a direction that will enable you to literally overlook the obvious, but now your lenses have been corrected as it were, and it is time to once again turn your eyes to the very core. And when we say core, we mean that in a very literal way, for you have been well trained to focus on all of the fuzz and interference and static that has been brought into your line of vision, so you could not see through it even if you tried. But now the lines have been untangled and the smoke has been aired out, and so, you must once again begin to focus in the right direction.

As usual we speak in parables, but we think you will all begin to see through our words and start to connect to the deeper truths that lie there. For as you have spent so many lifetimes embroiled in all of the hue and cry that has been kicked up by those intent on keeping you away from seeing this truth, you have become habituated to look in the direction the finger is pointing instead of looking at the finger itself, and so, what has been going on behind the facade has been out of your line of vision in every way. But now, you will be asked to stop staring in the same direction you have been used to, and to tear your eyes and indeed your mind away from the obvious. For now, we will ask you to start to look into the void, and we do mean that in every sense of the word. For mankind has become so used to thinking that only what they see, can exist, and so your world has shrunk down to something you find manageable and comfortable, and you have set up barriers that have kept anything intangible at bay. But now, you must start to look at the in-between, the things that seem not to be there, but that is really the space that makes everything else possible.

We have earlier referred to the fact that 1 and 1 makes 3, and now, we would like you all to focus on the space between the 1s that makes up the missing part, the active ingredient that to you so far has seemed to be non-existent, but that is in actual fact the whole point that everything else pivots around. You see, you have a brain that has been trained to classify everything it encounters through the senses by size and shape, by texture and by structure, by colour and by volume. And so, whatever does not fit in in such a system does not really exist at all, it is simply “air” or “empty space”, and as such, it has been dismissed as unimportant and uninteresting. But now, we ask you all to focus on this instead, for that is where all of the answers lie. This “empty space” is where life as you know it arises, it is where it all comes together to become, it is where the black and the white conjoins and sets itself alight, it is the spark that lights the fire, the line that connects the dots, it is where the inbreath becomes the outbreath and where the inner meets the outer so the two of them can exist simultaneously.

We know that what we say will make many a head spin, but we also know that it is this very spinning that will help to clear away any remaining cobwebs, as your whole system will still be trying to wander down the old and worn roads instead of seeking out into unknown and presumably empty territory. For you think that what you see is what you get, but now, it will be the other way around. For it is what you cannot yet “see” that will give you everything you dream of, and then some.

So look away from the obvious, and do not let yourself be ensnared by the old familiar shapes and symbols that surround you, but look instead into the spaces in between them, and then, you will begin to see what it is that is actually making up the fabric of your universe. For it is not the matter you can see that matters, it is what is around the matter that really matters, and this is what today’s lesson is all about. So shake your head and take a good look around and inside and outside yourself and see beyond the obvious and the fathomable, and start to look deeply into what to your eyes and your mind does not exist. For then, and only then, will you begin to see the shape of what is to come, and it is unimaginably wonderful, limitless and beautiful beyond compare.

---

423

For eons, mankind has been defined as consisting of single entities, carrying out their life’s work in hardship and toil from birth to death, for then to cease to exist altogether. In other words, you as humans have been defined as someone simply existing between the first and the last breath you take, and whatever comes before or indeed after that, is a subject shrouded in mystery. Be that as it may, you have by now managed to open your eyes to the fact that a human life as you used to define it is simply the proverbial tip of the iceberg – or even less so. For by now, you have started to tap into the rich vein that constitutes the real you, the one that is not confined within any physical limits, but who has chosen to define one part of themselves as a human.

Let us explain. The notion of a limited time of life that has driven mankind almost to the brink of extinction in the quest for some kind of immortality, either by way of fame, fortune or even infamy, is no longer one that needs to apply to any of you. For you have seen through the make believe that made you all believe in this falseness earlier on, and so, you have chosen to step out from the shadows of mortality and to re-enter the world of eternal existence. For you know fully well that even if the at times frail physical vehicle you inhabit one day will be reduced to dust, you will live on, just as you have done countless times before.

For you are not your body, and even if that is more than apparent to most of you at this stage, you still find time to question this fact whenever said physical frame seems to limit your capabilities to soar above these defined limitations it still seem to hold. Be that as it may, for you will all re-learn how to conduct a limitless life within an apparently delimited physical frame, and as such, the need to spread your wings fully again is one that will be fulfilled for all. You see, you are learning to ignore the old voice of reason as it is called, and instead, you are remembering how to listen to the voice of freedom, the one that is coming from those parts of you that are very much unfettered by the parts that make up your human counterpart. And now, you will all learn how to combine these two seemingly incompatible elements in a very new way, much akin to mixing fire and water without detriment to either.

You see, what you are about to do, is literally to take that fabled quantum leap that will remove you from your old station as it were and let you set your sights on something much, much broader in scope, and yes, we do mean that in every sense of the word. But again, we would like to remind you that you are in this human frame for a very good reason, so what we are referring to, is not about vanishing from the face of this Earth, not by a long shot. For you are still very much to be here, to be the grounded part of this celestial tree that grows all the way up to heavens and beyond. For without you as the roots, this magnificent tree of life could not make it here at all. Again, we speak in riddles so let us try to give you a more detailed explanation. As many of you have seen already, your role as pioneers is indeed so much more than being wayshowers for the rest of mankind. For not only will you be able to prove to them that life as they know it is simply not the end of it, you will also be the ones who will enable this total turnaround by acting as those formerly mentioned anchors, the “missing link” if you will between what cannot yet be seen by the majority and all of the potential that resides here on this planet. For you are the ones making this connection secure, the ones that have established this channel of interaction between your home planet and the rest of Creation in a way that has set this whole plan into action. For you are the conduits that are necessary for it all to come together, and so far, what you have accomplished is indeed nothing short of miraculous, as we have already told you on numerous occasions. But now, you will also start to serve in a much more complex way, as the harbingers of a new dawn, but also as the carriers of the torch of freedom.

Let us elaborate. As usual, we use lofty words but they are not overstating anything at all. For you are indeed major players in a huge and complex operation that has by now very much changed into a new and much more efficient gear. And so, as you walk about, you are literally reigniting some deeply hidden deposits of energetic imprints that again will help to speed up this process immensely. We know that this will not be news to any of you, for this is indeed a subject that we have touched upon earlier but now, we would like to give you a few examples of what it is that you do in your roles as torchbearers for this highly complex galactic event, involving myriads of beings on many levels of evolutionary development.

You see, you have planted your roots deep into the soil on this planet you call your home, and the first of these roots were put down that very first time you entered this realm within a human body. As we have told you earlier, your history as a human goes back a long, long way, and every single time you returned to these shores, you brought with you a new batch of energetic information that was encapsulated and secreted away into the deeper layers of this planet. This will sound more than a little improbable to some of you, but remember, you have never been confined by the physical limits of your body, that is simply a figment of your imagination, and it has always been so. But for eons, you very much carried out this important part of your work undercover as it were, and that includes from your own abilities to consciously connect to the real reason for you to come here in the first place. And so, you returned again and again, planting ever deeper roots every single time, and each time, what you brought in carried with it a vital piece of energetic information that was connected to what you had brought in before. And so, bit by bit, piece by piece, this earthly library grew into a vast underground network of interconnected sleeping cells if you will, all lying there dormant, ready to be taken into full use when the time came for them to be activated.

And now, these lights are coming on, one by one, starting to illuminate a part of mankind’s environment that you have yet to discover. But even if you still fail to notice much of the influence it has already started to have on you all, your abilities to detect it will continue to grow at a rapid rate now. And so, your roles as this hub or vital connector point will only grow in magnitude, as you will be the ones that will be able to access all of this formerly inactive information, and then, you will be guided closely just how to utilize it for the benefit of all. For these treasures are not to be hoarded, they are to be dispersed far and wide, in ways that will bring about such a total shift in the lives of every one that comes into contact with it.

Again, you are not here for the benefit of you as a single entity, you are here to ensure that the collective will and can benefit from this in a way that will bring about a major shift for all of mankind, and so, what you do as single individuals will have implications that reaches far beyond what you today consider as your own individual energetic space. For you are no longer just as small bubbles of light on a vast, darkened ocean. No, you have by now coalesced into a huge, shimmering sphere that encompasses your entire globe. And the roots that you have laid down one by one has also grown together to form a single structure of energetic support that will carry you all in a basket of flexible but sturdy branches of light.

So as you walk upon this Earth, you set off a veritable cascade of sparks that will go off in all directions, and in turn ignite new sparks whenever they encounter another part of this huge network. And just like the signals travelling at the speed of light within the passages in your brain, your initiated “conversation” will fly around this whole planet at an unprecedented pace. And so, every single day, you set off more and more of these enlightened reactions under your very feet, and every single day, new information is being anchored into this vast network from the outer reaches of Creation through your own body. For you act as the connectors, the ones that ensure that the communication between your world and the rest of Creation is seamless, in every sense of the word. And even if you at times will feel less that invigorated by everything that is going on, know that you are definitely not holding up this conversation and indeed conversion of energy in any way, far from it. For at this stage, you have all become so accomplished at this multi-level and highly dynamic way of communication, and now, all it takes, is for you to prick up your ears and start to listen in more.

You see, you are no longer being “kept in the dark” as it were, In fact, you never have been, but to ensure the safety of each individual and indeed this whole operation, you have been kept “unconscious” of most of this up until now. But now, you can start to listen in as much as you like, for after all, you not only play an important part as the channel for all of this incessant communication, you also put more than your two cents worth in. For you are not simply a messenger, you are also a part of the message, and so, what you will find when you start to manage to tune into it all will be a very familiar voice, the voice of that magnificent, multi-dimensional being that is the real you, the one you perhaps thought you had lost contact with, the one that you perhaps had forgotten all about. But now, the time has come for you to start to listen in to find out so much more about your own roots – in every sense of the word, and in every way.

---

424

As mankind started to evolve, so much of the inherent abilities they came in with, started to decline. This will sound like a contradiction, but this is in fact exactly what happened. For mankind came to be as a perfect species already programmed to attain great heights by their own abilities to climb further up from their very humble beginnings, and in this, you were all set to become the shining beings that you have so longed for to be. But alas, an intervention came to pass, one where other interests were injected into your very bloodstream, and where your future was re-tailored in such a way, it would suit those that came in looking for a way to serve their own interests. And the rest is history as they say, except for the fact that even if these intruders tried as hard as they could, they could not eradicate that shining center of your being, no matter what tricks they resorted to. And so, what was suppressed in the name of blatant manipulation and extortion has once again been set free, and it has been set free by the likes of you, wonderful beings capable of extracting themselves from that mire of fear so many of their brothers and sisters have suffered under for lifetime after lifetime.

Make no mistake, you have also had lives where you walked deep in the valley of the shadows like the rest of mankind, but even then, there was something inside of you that kept you going, and that kept this glimmer of hope alive within you. And so, you came in again and again, patiently waiting for the right time for this little spark to burst into full flame. And now, finally, the time has come, and even before you were born this time you knew beyond any lingering shadows of doubt that this time, the time would come for you to stand up and say “no more, I will not be led away from my true self anymore. For now, I will stand tall and proud, cast off the shackles and learn to fly again”. And so you did, and here you all are, already shining in your resplendent robes of light, but still, you have more to offer this world and All of creation, and this is what is literally becoming apparent to all.

For now, those hidden deposits, that deep vein of shimmering golden light that you have carried safely tucked away for every single journey you have taken to this shore, now, that vein will finally begin to be exposed for the treasure it really is, and already, your willingness to explore this hidden resource will have far reaching consequences, spreading out even beyond your known surroundings. For you are tapping into a repository that will again help to seed anything and anyone it touches, and so what you are doing, is literally to set off a veritable feast of fertility, where the spores you release will set to work as soon as they touch down on a suitable “surface”. And even if you think this world of yours has been turned into a barren wasteland of disillusion, mismanaged and destruction, we can only say think again. For this world is still as vibrant as they come, but as we have told you again and again, the surface you connect to through your human capacities to take in information will seem to be less than fertile in so many ways. But that is again simply a case of what you see, is not what you will get. For you have managed to burrow yourself underneath this stifling layer of old and solidified energetic imprisonment and you have sent down roots deep, deep into the fertile fields that abound under this wafer-thin membrane of non-light that still covers much of the surface of this planet. But again, if you want to think of this in numbers, think of an infinitesimally small percentage and then cut that in half, and that will constitute the small number of energy “contaminated” if you will of the vast pool of vibrancy you really have at your disposal.

For you have already managed to shake off that layer of dust that made you feel close to suffocation, and so too has your planet, and together, the two of you will ensure that the rest of this old and stale covering will start to disintegrate once and for all. For you are all expanding now at a rapid pace, and as we have mentioned earlier, your sphere of influence is advancing too, and already, your individual spheres are interlocking in a way that has ensured the establishing of enlightened corridors all over your planet. So even if there are still some parts of your world suffering under a heavy mass of negativity, you can travel the globe and still breathe the fresh air of freedom. And the reason for this is simply the fact that you have allowed that small spark of light you have carried with you to get that first tantalizing taste of fresh air, and so, as you opened the doors to the light that came streaming in from the outer reaches of Creation, that small spark jumped at the chance to finally grow into a roaring fire, a fire that cleansed not only you, but also the planet you live upon.

Make no mistake, you are not finished with this ritual cleansing, for there are still some very stubborn stains that need to be exposed to the light and to the freshest of air before they will let go completely, but that task is one that will be accomplished by your continued willingness to let the light shine unhindered and unfiltered through your very being. And not only that, it will also be accomplished by the fact that the very ground you step upon will add even more strength to this already highly effective mixture of enlightened energy and truly enlightened beings that tread upon this selfsame soil. For you are partners now in an endeavour that spans the ages, and in an endeavour that straddles the continents, the deep expanses of the sea, and the very air that you breathe. And so, as you have managed to reunite yourself not only with those inner expanses within, but also with those inner expanses of your wondrous globe, you will have no problem furthering this expansion of light so that it will touch the feet, the hearts and the minds of every living creature that resides here.

For the doors that you have opened to your innermost treasures are intrinsically linked to those deep inside the womb of Mother Earth herself, and together you will literally pro- and co-create the new. For as you step forward on this glorious path of light, you give birth to new ideas, new solutions and new opportunities wherever it is you choose to shift your focus, and as such, you are literally a walking propagator for the new life that has already started to take hold on your shores. So together you are making history happen again, but you are making it happen in the way it was intended, through light and through love, through joy and through a harmonic conversation between you and the heavenly body you all inhabit. And the tune you are playing out in unison now is truly a song of the utmost beauty and perfection, yet, it is still only a small tasting of what is yet to come. For you have still a way to go, but that path ahead is already quivering in anticipation from what it is you will bestow upon it by way of creativity, ingenuity, compassion and devotion. For you are sowing the seeds of love with every step you take and with every breath you draw deep into your lungs. And as you continue to stride confidently forward, you will feel the wholehearted support not just from every one of us literally hovering around you in the unseen realms. You will also feel the unending support of your very own Gaia, the Mother of your heart and the life beneath your feet. And through that, the new world will arise, for the seeds you continue to sow so generously will all take to root as they find fertile soil and an abundance of nutrition no matter where they land and no matter how far flung you scatter them.

So go forth and procreate, and go forth and co-create the land and the sea and the air of your very dreams, and know that no matter how lofty those dreams are, they are none too big to come into being. For you cannot dream too big, nor need you fear accomplishing too little, for none of those options are applicable any more. For you have managed to set your goals without limits, as only a human mind is still restricted by limitations, and you have long since stepped away from the confines that a human mind still holds so many imprisoned by. So simply continue to allow the flow to take you wherever it is it wants you to go, and know that wherever that is, it will be the place you heart has been dreaming of, for eons. So once again we wish you god speed on your journey, and once again we thank you all on behalf of All of creation for being who you are and for doing what you do. You are walking your talk, and you are doing it with a confidence that gladdens our hearts mightily.

For no more are you those timid creatures devoid of self-confidence, for you have found your inner core, and you have found that you are not lacking in any way, and for that we cannot thank you enough. For you are the ones making this happen, and it is through your courage of rediscovery that all of this has come about, and now, you will continue to surprise and delight not just us, but mostly yourselves. For we have known all along just what feats you are capable of, but for the longest of times, you though yourselves incapable of anything at all. You did not need to prove it to us, but you did need to impress yourselves a little bit before you truly started to take this truth for the truth it really is. But now that you are finally starting to remember your own greatness, there is truly no stopping you. So keep on keeping on, and keep reminding yourselves of the magnitude of your accomplishments. For you are the true creators of your own lives now, and that is a feat that no one can take away from you. Nor can anyone stop you in your tracks from attaining even more of your longed for new lease on life. For the future is yours dear ones, in every sense of the word, for you are the ones already making it come into being by creating your dreams by way of breathing life into them – every day, every hour and every second you walk on these shores.

---

425

This message will perhaps shake up a few of those old misconceptions that still survive even in some of the enlightened circles. You see, this has very much to do about the very nature of things, and when we say that we are actually referring to the state that makes everything come about or rather come into existence in a way that enables you to perceive them. For existence and the definition of it is indeed a very convoluted subject, as what seems to exist to a human, is merely the tiniest tip of the proverbial iceberg compared to what really is out here. You see, or rather, you cannot see so much of what truly IS, and even with the most sophisticated of your equipment, you have only started to scratch the surface of Creation. Or perhaps we should say you have only seen one tiny layer of that huge and complex structure. And so, mankind go around with some very set notions in their minds of what IS and what is indeed possible, and so you continue to see everything from an extremely narrow perspective.

We know that this will make many of you nod your heads in agreement, after all, you are the ones who have persistently been seeking outside of these narrow confines for a very long time now. Yet, you have still not managed to come very far from that somewhat humble beginnings you started your quest from. And no, this is not said in order to rile you in any way, or for us to try to imply any kind of superiority over you. Far from it, this is simply intended as a reminder that you still have so much to search for on this quest for answers. And yes, this may frustrate you to no end, for what you can sense if you truly prick up your senses is a field so vast, it makes it almost unbearably irritating at times not to be able to see it more clearly. And so, you may kick out in despair or you may simply pull back your feelers and content yourself with exploring the field you have already crossed before. But by doing that, you are actually allowing yourself to narrow down your own field of potential in a very tangible way. You see, you are the only one who can go where no man has gone before, and if you resist letting that tantalizing whiff of knowledge lead you on, you will only serve to slow down not only yourself but all of mankind.

Again, this is not any form of criticism, rather it is an important reminder for you all to continue to push through those boundaries you still have when it comes to your own abilities to seek perfection. And when we say perfection, we do not mean that in any superficial way, rather, it is to remind you all of your own greatness. For you already are all of those things you cannot even begin to believe is true, but still, you have yet to truly own that greatness, to take it fully into your possession once again. For this cannot be done by anyone else but you, and in doing that, you will help to open the door for everyone else that might find the courage to enter that same hall that you have so boldly stepped into. You see, someone has to take that first step, but up until now, so many of you have hesitated at that very doorstep, and for one reason or the other, you have chosen to step back in the hope that someone else may take the lead. But now it is our task to remind each and every one of you of your own responsibility in this whole operation. For as we have told you again and again, what you do, you do for all, so too in this.

In other words, the more you choose to hold yourself back, the more you will actually serve to slow down the process for all those following in your footsteps. Remember, you are the wayshowers in every sense of the word, for you act as the vanguard for a whole host of others, and so, whenever you think yourself unable to complete another step on this journey, you slow down and so do all those behind you. For you are indeed trailblazers in the right sense of the word, and that is why you are here, to find a way to overcome your own inhibitions. For you can already fly, but for all of your lives you have done nothing more than run at top speed at the most. You see, you are so much freer than you still seem to think, and for many of you, the old idea of disbelief in your own abilities is still anchoring you very firmly in that old way of thinking and acting. And so, look upon this as a kind of shaking of the tree, an impetus to give yourself that extra push you need to push yourself off that branch you have been clinging so tenaciously to for such a long time now.

For you are more than ready to fly dear ones, but like a timid fledgling, you sit there waiting for the right opportunity to do so. Well, that window of opportunity has been standing wide open for quite some time now, the sky is clear and the wind is indeed favourable, so why not make a firm decision to cast off once and for all? You see, you will not crash nor fail, for your wings have been constructed to carry a far heavier weight than yourself. For you will be bringing so much more with you into the air when you finally dare to soar, for when you lift off, all of humanity will feel themselves being pulled along in your wake. So once again we say do not make yourself smaller than you truly are, and stop stopping yourself by questioning your own inherent qualities. For you are all shining examples of souls that know no limits at all – in every sense of the word, but still, you have an ability to override that truth with some carefully chosen words of discouragement whenever the opportunity to truly shine your light arises.

This does not mean that you are merely shadows of yourselves, hiding in the corners at all times, far from it. For you have lifted yourselves and this world a far cry from that old and dreadful state you used to linger in, and with every step you take, you continue to spread that inner light of yours far across the land. But still, there is something within you that continues to keep your light just that much dimmer than it truly is, and now the time has come for you all to adjust your wattage if we may use such an expression. You see, you do not lack anything at all, except perhaps the courage to truly shine as brightly as you actually can. So now, we do hope you will all remember to take some time to look at your own light in the light of this truth, and we venture to guess that what you see if you truly acknowledge your inner greatness, will be a far cry from the meager supply of light that actually reaches the outside. Not that it is far too small to have an effect, but it is simply a small taste of what you have to offer yourself in the way of enlightenment. And when you dare to offer your own inner light freely to yourself, then you will also automatically begin to share that immense powerhouse with the rest of mankind, with the rest of this world, and with the rest of Creation. And remember, it is sorely needed, for this planet has been left to survive on the merest scraps of light for far too long now. But now, thanks to your ability to once more connect to Source, there is no more lack of resources on this planet, as long as you all allow yourselves to truly shine at your very brightest.

---

426

Let us begin this missive by saying that you have by now already accomplished to pierce a few holes in that membrane that separates you from your own greatness, and like stars on the firmament, these small apertures will begin to exude a powerful light that will begin to attract your attention, but also the attention of others. You see, you are not just here to discover your own greatness, you are here to utilize that high voltage of light to create change on a vast scale, not just for your planet, but for All of creation. And before this adds to your already considerable pile of reasons to begin to think yourselves unworthy of all of this attention, know that you are far above and beyond anything that we can heap upon you of our most lavish of praise. For you are truly gods in your own right, but still, the rediscovery of this lies somewhere off into the future, but now, you will at least begin to get a small inkling of it by the light that will begin to seep through these small apertures you have created for yourself.

And so, this will also begin to equalize the pressure if you will between that small and cramped compartment you currently abide within and the enormous and light filled space that is yours to enter whenever you manage to pick up your courage and determination enough to stride across that divide you still seem to find insurmountable. That is, your mind still thinks so, but the rest of you is already starting to venture closer by the day and indeed, by the night. For so much of this process will be governed by your higher self, that part of you that sometimes seem to be such a distant relative you have no idea it even exists, while at other times you feel yourself comfortably immersed in the sweetness of yourself and you just know that you are finally home. Well, the two of you are indeed about to get better acquainted now that these small openings will begin to assist these get-togethers in a very new way. Remember, your hesitation will indeed serve to slow down the pace, but also know that your higher self is already confident in your own success, and so the two of you together will find a way to overcome those obstacles the human parts of you still try so fervently to invent.

For as that old separation begin to come to a close, the nearness of your own greatness will feel almost overpowering at times, and instead of seeking towards it, you may find yourself trying to shrink back from it, yes, in every sense of the word. For you will feel literally too small to contain it all, and no less too limited to even begin to understand it, but again, this is not something you need to understand. In fact, you will be far better off not even trying to. For this is not an intellectual task you have given yourself, a riddle that needs to be solved by your human counterpart. No, this is simply something you have to allow yourself to carry out with every ounce of your being, and without any hesitation at all. For you can stand in your own way if you so choose but you can also choose to simply step aside and let your own greatness carry you all the way home into you. Again, the choice is yours, but remember what your human mind still thinks of as free will is indeed under the jurisdiction of your own higher self. So whatever your heart tells you, is the truth, and whatever your mind tries to make of it, is simply a figment of your imagination, and it is not something that can be construed as part of your free will at all.

Again, you are all sovereign beings, but when we say that, we refer to the totality of your being, not of that one small part of you that goes under the definition of your human ego. And so, for many of you, an inner turmoil may erupt at one point or another, that is, if you try to go against your own free will and fight too hard to keep an old and limited idea of yourself still running your actions and your intents. For that can too easily happen, and the reason is also easy to explain. You have been so programmed to listen to that same small inner voice literally lifetime after lifetime, so you look upon it as the symbol of you, when it is in fact merely a whisper from those uttermost layers of your being. So this time, make sure you give yourself the benefit of doubt whenever this old and so-called “voice of reason” begins once again to pipe up with all kinds of suggestions why you should not allow your own greatness to truly begin to shine through. For that is not the voice of reason, that is simply the old storyline of illusion, and now, you have been given the task of ripping asunder that old veil and unveil the real you that has been sitting behind it waiting for you to finally claim it back as yours. For it is you in every way, and now, the time has come to step boldly forth and say “THIS is me, not that small fragment of humanity that currently enables me to be present here at this grand occasion, these momentous times, not just for mankind, but for All of creation. And thanks to me, this opportunity has finally come about, and now, I will do everything I can not to stand in my way nor any other’s, and I will add my considerable weight to this already rolling wheel that is bringing us all into the new and away from the old”.

For that is why you are here, to amplify the change by adding all of your being in one seamless package, by connecting what has been separated and by allowing every single part of you to come together into one coherent, magnificent ONE, housed within the relatively tiny body of a human, but carrying within you the power of All of creation. So step aside and let your own greatness take the lead, and do not let your own ideas of smallness hold you back any longer. For you are made to shine brightly dear ones, and now, you have already started to allow this brightness to seep out into the open. And remember the faster you allow these openings to widen, the less the pressure will be, and vice versa. For you determine the speed, but the speed also determines the intensity of your own process. So once again we say allow the flow, and know that it will help to you float through these rapids faster and in a much more comfortable way, if we may use such a word for a process that is indeed bar none the most important and the most complex ever undertaken by anyone. But that is why you are here, and that is what you are more than capable of.

After all, you have been hand picked for this assignment, because you are truly the ones who have what it takes and then some, and so, it is not by accident that you find yourselves at this juncture now, for that is what you have been preparing for, seemingly forever. So give yourself the leeway you need so that you can find a way to tune into those parts of you that are already well under way in accomplishing this gargantuan task, and let those parts of you still insisting you are not good enough step back and fall silent. For you are so much more than that hesitant voice, and we know that you know this too. For you all have it in you, and now is the time to let this power be unleashed from that straight jacket it has been kept in for far too long.

Remember, it is your old programming that is trying to make you fearful of your own powers, for you have been well taught to think that what you can sense deep within you is something that must be avoided at all costs. For what you sense approaching is a change so profound any so-called “normal” human being would automatically shy away from it, for that is what you have been taught to do. For you have been well trained to avoid change at any cost, and to stay obedient to this at all times, and so, whenever that inner strength begins to seep out, so many of you will literally step back from it because it seems to intimidate you and even threaten your very existence. For you think it may destroy you, but it will not. It will simply destroy the illusion that has kept you trapped within it for lifetime after lifetime, so no wonder you might cringe at the very idea. Remember, mankind has learned to abhor change, but your task is not only to initiate but also to succeed in changing everything that you up until now has looked upon as reality, and now, that truth is literally beginning to seep out from your very bones. So no wonder you may feel yourself fluctuating between elation and anxiety at times like these. Just know that you all know exactly what to do and how to do it, and now the question is simply this, when will you be ready to actually allow it to happen?

---

427

For now, the quickening you have entered will begin to manifest in a myriad of ways. Some of them will feel familiar, while others will happen in a very unexpected manner. You see, this opening that you have allowed yourself to take part in will be put to good use, and through these openings many a form of information will continue to flow in, and through this information, a whole host of related events will come into being.

Remember, you are all individuals, but by now you are so deeply connected that whatever takes place in your little personal sphere will affect those sitting in a very different location on your large but also very small planet. For you are all like one singular cell, one minuscule component of a huge and intricately constructed living organism, and as soon as one of you so much as flutter your wings slightly, it will have an effect on the whole, much like that fabled butterfly effect many of you have perhaps come to know about already. For you are no more isolated than a single coral on a large reef, but as you go about your day, we venture to guess you take little time to consider the effects all of these seemingly simple actions you take have on this entire planet of yours. For you are living, breathing change makers, and with your very presence, you are making change happen on such a scale and at such a pace, nothing the likes of it has ever been seen anywhere.

We know that you still harbour doubts as to the truth that lies in our words, and rightly so, for you have been carefully groomed by your old but now defunct overlords to look upon yourselves as no more than small and insignificant grains of sand, there to be used as fodder for the grinder of mankind, forever being ground into smaller versions of yourselves. But that old truth has been more than exposed for the lie it has been all the way from the beginning, and now, your true roles as creator gods are finally starting to rise to the surface yet again. It has been a long time coming, so no wonder your mind is still very much set into disbelief mode. For what you are about to do, will also break down even more of these old misdirected “truths” that have been brought down through many a generation on this planet. And so, as you step ever further into this seemingly unbelievable landscape that at this stage still seems like no more than an old and wildly exaggerated myth itself, you will begin to bring that essence of your own self up for you to not only acknowledge but to fully embrace. And when you do that, all of mankind will feel the effects from it.

Again, your actions whether you might consider them large or small, have great effects on all, and whatever you do or cease to do, will create a domino effect that in turn will run through every single human in one way or the other. We are well aware that for many of you, this will still seem more than a little far fetched, while for others, a sage nod of acquiescence will follow from these words. For you all know this beforehand, but for a few of you, this truth has already become obvious, and it is one that you are starting to embrace fully in every way. And so, you find yourself experiencing things that others deem as just figments of imagination, while you know with all of your being that they are taking place. And they are not simply taking place within the realms of your imagination, they are actually being played out in full detail in myriads of dimensions already.

For you have already started to play the field in every way, and when we say the field, you know very well what we refer to. For you have discovered the secret behind the one dimensional facade mankind has been hiding for eons, and you have seen that you actually exist not as just one being, but as a collection of interconnected fragments or manifestations, all communicating between themselves at a speed that far exceeds that of the light. And they all act not only separately but also in unison in a way that is so intricately orchestrated, your human mind has no way of coming to full terms with it at all no matter how hard it tries. For you are multi-dimensional, and it is this truth that is starting to seep in to all of you. And with it comes a whole host of seemingly unconnected sequences of information that will at one time or another begin to register in your human manifestation too. At first, it will be a little bit like hearing snippets of conversations coming from every direction at once, like standing in the middle of a large field overhearing messages being transmitted by way of the wind from either side of the field in all directions at once, and between multiple recipients and senders.

This is just a feeble attempt to explain it, still, it is the best we can do at this stage by way of using the limited language of words. But as you have already ascertained, within these written messages there is another language too, one that is encoded in the spaces between the letters if you will. For in this, the phrase “pregnant pause” very much comes to mind, if you will permit us to play with your words a little bit. For this multi-dimensional conversation is one that is not limited to language, nor to sound or any other way of communication you as humans have gotten used to. Remember, for most of the time mankind has lived on these shores, communication was limited to what could be exchanged directly from one person to another by way of the mouth and the ears, but soon, that grew into a pictorial way of communication that would enable you to share information independently of time, and that in turn has grown into ways of communication that are not limited by time nor by distance. In other words, a message can be stored and delivered at will long after it has been given, and it can also be received a long way away from where it was originally given. So in that way, mankind has already made a huge leap in the way of intercommunication, especially during this last decade. Well, let us just say that the entire evolution of human communication so far is no more than the tiniest drop in the ocean of possible ways to exchange information and you will begin to get a small picture of the huge step you have initiated by allowing yourselves to open up to the light, and by allowing yourselves to begin to step across this threshold that you have held yourself back from for such a long time.

For now, the flood of light will continue to push you faster and faster ahead, and as this incoming light continue to enable your own inherent systems to come “online” at an ever increasing pace, you will begin to tap into this varied field of communication in so many ways. And so, messages like this will in effect become obsolete in the not too distant future. For then, you will know beyond the shadow of a doubt that it is in fact YOU who are the message as well as the medium, and then, all external division will cease, and you will truly become ONE – yes, in every sense of the word, and in every sense of your being. For then, the ideas of separation will simply fade away so quickly, you will not even be able to remember they ever existed. And then, what has been lost will be found to such an extent, whatever needs to be lost will not exist at all. So you see, you have some interesting exploring to do in the time ahead, and it will all be done in the comfort of your own mind, to twist a little bit on the words again.

For this journey is not one that needs any preparation, nor luggage, this is simply a journey that has no beginning nor any end. For this is the journey of YOU, the one that was begun simultaneously as everything else came into being, and it will continue as long as everything will be in existence. So even if you are used to dividing your history into days, decades or even separate lives, let us just remind you that you are plain and simply YOU, the same one you have always been, and the essence of all that you can be as you continue to unravel the mystery of this Creation that you are just a tiny little component of. For you are God, yet you are also Creation, and it is in this pregnant pause between the two that you come into being.

And so, once again the words will perhaps simply continue to manifest the limitations of a human mind, while the energies within them will begin to awaken even more parts of that magical being that is you in all of your glory. So just prick up those energetic ears of yours that by now are more than ready to register the signals coming your way, and then, you will literally begin to see this whole amazing but at this stage perhaps totally confusing picture, in startling and indeed delightful detail. And then, you will begin to understand the true quest you are on, for it is so much more than a mere liberation of mankind. And with this little seed of enlightenment, we bid you farewell for now to give you once again some time to ponder our words and to tune into the vibration that accompanies them.

You see the changes happening within you with your inner eye, for so much of what is going on now, is taking place in that inner landscape of yours. And even if some of what we are referring to is indeed happening to your physical body, most of it is happening in a space that is not defined by any such boundaries. In fact, most of what is going on now is taking place in those parts of Creation that mankind seems to think do not exist at all, or perhaps only as figments of your imagination. Well, let us just say that in this, you could not be more wrong, for the space we refer to, is indeed far more real than the illusion you currently look upon as your reality.

Let us explain. Mankind has for eons gotten used to the idea – for that is truly what it is – that for something to be “real”, it must be tangible in some ways. In other words, it needs to register in your mind by way of your five senses, and so, you have narrowed down your scope more and more. In fact the more adept you have become at detecting even the most minuscule of particles with your technical equipment, the less inclined a large number of the population on this Earth have become to believe anything that does not come up for scrutiny in this kind of way. In other words, mankind’s spiritual development has in so many ways been arrested by your technological development, as in large swathes of the populace, the reality wayshowers like you have already stepped into will be scoffed and ridiculed at any opportunity that arise for them to do so. Have you given any thought as to why this seems to only multiply in some? Perhaps it is to do with the fact that they themselves feel an inner stirring from these hidden chambers within, and so, in order to eradicate that fear of, for them, the unknown, they will do what they can to erase those selfsame stirrings in other. So again you see the polarization continue to strengthen as the light continues to gather momentum, but again, trying to stop the light by resorting to the same old “weapons” of ridicule, persecution or silence in the hope that these notions will die out are no less than follies. For you all know so well by now that what you have started to unlock within yourself is simply a tiny little part of the vast force field that actually penetrates all of mankind, and now, you stand before a new chance to help to liberate even more of that force field.

Again, no one can be forced to open that door they have tried so hard to forget even existed within them for eternity, but now, you will all help to set into motion certain significant events that will make that door more prominent within all. And so, more and more of your fellow men will begin to take notice of what it is that is calling to them deep within the confines of their hitherto restricted world view. For they will begin to take into consideration that their world view, the one that is limited to “what you see is all you get” will start to crumble, and when it does, many will crumble alongside with it. You see, not everyone is prepared to really take in the truth that this will uncover, for it will fly in the face of everything they have taken for granted. Not just the empirical facts and figures that for so long have been touted as the “laws of nature” but also the notion about mankind being the single intelligent species in existence – not just on your planet, but in All of creation. We know that for you, this will be old news, for this is what has guided you on your journey from the very beginning. But for many others, the simple fact that everything they have believed in – in every sense of the word – will begin not simply to be questioned, but literally to be proven wrong on all accounts, will simply be too much to bear. And so they will shut down, and step away from it all.

This may sound dramatic, but remember it is not given that every single human incarnation living on this planet at this exact time have given themselves permission to commit themselves fully to the reopening of these inner portals this time around, and so, what they will choose, will also be defined by that decision that they made on a higher level even before they ventured into a physical body this time around. We say this in order to remind you all that no matter what takes place in the weeks and months ahead, know that it is all happening for a reason, so too the more personal effects this may have for some of you. For you are all sovereign beings, and you are all instructed to follow the plan you yourself were so instrumental in setting up even before you started to step down from the totality of your being and entered this current physical vehicle that you know as you in human form. And so, you will simply do what you came here to do, and so will everyone else you see around you. For even those you might think devoid of a soul all have one, and it is just as brilliant as yours, but the life choices they make are also guided by a higher part of them just as yours, no matter what they set themselves to do in the time ahead.

We give you this reminder now because we do find it prudent to do so, as what you stand before now, is such a major shift it will serve to stir up a lot of different reactions. For as usual, when the tide of light comes in at such a force as it will do now, it will once again begin to literally push a whole host of buttons in every single one of you, and in every single one of your fellow men. Granted, the outcome of all of this will not be instantaneously noticeable, nor will it necessarily manifest in just the way that you might think. For the light will do what the light always does, push the scales and tip the balance, sometimes one way, sometimes seemingly in the very opposite direction, but the one thing you need to remember is this: no matter what actions that will be initiated because of this incoming flux of light, they will all serve to bring mankind closer to Source by allowing them all a chance to find a way to disclose what it is they have been carrying with them for eternity.

In other words, the chain of events that soon will be set into motion will begin to spawn so many viable offspring by way of vibrant fields of energetic interactions that will begin to take place between hitherto unconnected individuals, and this in turn will affect a wider and wider circle around each and every one of these individuals. Again, we speak in somewhat convoluted terms, but we think you by now have begun to grasp the fundamental part of this message. You stand before a grand unveiling of mankind's own abilities to reset and resurrect ancient veins of creativity, connectivity and compatibility. For you are creatures capable of great achievements, far far greater than what you can currently observe around you, and now, this will truly begin to come out in the open, in every sense of the word. For you will begin to receive information that has been kept hidden, and some of this information will indeed come in a very concrete form, not just as in messages like these. For you are still very much creatures bound by that old maxim of only what can be seen can be true, and so, your eyes will finally begin to see the unseen, and your hands will finally be able to touch the unknown in ways that you have not been able to do before. But as these hidden treasures begin to surface, they will in turn initiate a vast process of resettlement amongst you all, and when we say that, we do mean all of mankind. For what is beginning to emerge will change not only your future, but also your past, and with it, the whole foundation of mankind will begin to shift and rearrange itself in a process that in itself will serve to unsettle so many before you all start to find your true bearings once again.

We venture to guess that you will already begin to see proof of this announced even in what you call your mainstream media. For the news will also begin to contain real news, not just the usual mixed bag of disinformation and distraction, and so we say, keep your eyes open and let your heart guide you, and we think you will all begin to unearth some of these treasures yourselves. For remember, some of what we refer to will be like hidden gems in a whole mountain of trash, so keep your wits about you and follow the scent of interest coming from the most unexpected of corners. And again, remember to share whatever it is that you might "stumble upon", for this in turn will serve to lead another group of like minded souls more directly to the source that is waiting for them. And so, this process of uncovering and of evolving will begin to rapidly unfold, and we think you will all find yourself caught up in the excitement fairly soon. Just remember, what excites you might incite another, for many of the old "truths" that will be relocated to the scrapheap are truths that are holding up quite a few of your fellow men, perhaps even some of those closest to you.

So do not be surprised if what delights you will turn someone else to despair, but you must also remember that you should never let that deter you from finding your truth. For this is all about the continued quest for the truth, the one that has been hidden for such a long time, but is finally being allowed to come out into the light again. But as you all know so well by now, the full force of the light will be too bright for some, and so, they will once again do what they can to turn their back on it, and for some, that will also entail trying to pull as many as they can with them as far as possible into the lingering shadows. So once again we say remember to focus on the light, and you will find all the confirmation you will ever need there. For your heart will once again be the guide that will take you back to your own core, and there, there is never any doubt, nor any hesitation, for then, you will at all times simply KNOW just who you are and what amazing feats you and this whole collection of wonderful individuals calling themselves mankind are truly capable of. And now, this truth will begin to crystallize more and more as these hidden treasures begin to emerge, some of them from the sea, some of them from the land, but most of all, from YOU.

---

429

Once more we would like to take the opportunity to thank you all for the way that you continue to embrace these ever evolving and rapidly unfolding sequences of events that were initiated during the week of gatherings that took place a short while ago in Crete. Again, this was indeed something that involved a much, much larger number of participants than those collected under the same roof or even in that specific geographic location. For not only was that crowd more than outnumbered not just by all of the otherworldly beings that came together in that same space at that same time period, for in addition, a whole host of souls took part in what can only be described not just as a global but also as a truly cosmic affair. For in this, we can in no way overstate the importance of what took place during that one week period of staged events, for it was indeed something that had far reaching repercussions not only geographically but also time wise.

You see, as you entered that time period here on this planet, you also entered what we can only describe as a pocket, or perhaps bubble would be a better word for it, of linear and non-linear sequences of time, all coming together for the very first time in such a way, what was undertaken during one of them, affected also those more free flowing ones. So what took place during that week of coordinated events did not simply affect life in your timeline, it also managed to literally jump over into other and far less linear concepts of time than the one you are all currently experiencing. Let us explain. You see, during this period, the sea of time can be likened to a frothy foam, one where individual bubbles of cosmic time are thrown together, seemingly haphazardly, but with a carefully orchestrated plan behind all of it. And so, as you went about putting into action those seemingly small and unconnected pieces of the puzzle that you as individuals were given to carry out during that same time frame, what you did had a far reaching effect, one that literally crossed over into so many other sequences of hitherto unconnected timelines. And so, as one spark may jump from one cable to the next without any parts of them having any direct contact at all, what you set into motion in your timeline affected so many other timelines as well, setting off a veritable firestorm of interconnected events that in turn served to sever that hold the Old world had not only on you, but also on your forebears and indeed your children's children's children in an ever widening ripple of time sequences.

So again we can only say thank you – not just for your willingness to step forth when asked to do so, but also for your tenacity. For this was not a one-off thing that was concluded as that week was concluded. No, this is to all intents and purposes an open spiral that will continue to unfold and evolve as your timeline continues to roll out, and every day you add another layer of intricately wedded pieces to this spiral, making it ever wider so that it in turn can encompass ever larger swathes not just of humanity, but of All of creation.

Again, we know that our words will be met by hesitance and perhaps even incredulity, but let us just remind you of this simple fact: everything you do now is connected to everything else that was shaken into motion as you set forth to set yourself free. And as you finally managed to open that hitherto closed door that stood between you and the New, you created such a huge surge of energetic realignments that it can only be likened to the most complex of what you describe as the “domino-effect” but in this, more pieces were set into motion than any record breaking event that you yourselves may have witnessed on your TV-screens or anywhere else. For what was previously unconnected has now become connected in a very new way, and for some of you, the results from all of this coming together has already become more than obvious. For now, you are truly multi-dimensional and multi-faceted beings, capable of travelling at a speed that far surpasses the speed of light and capable of feats that would seem to be more than impossible just a few short weeks ago. For as you decided to step across that divide that separated you from the new beginnings that you have hankered so for, not just during this lifetime, you also ignited so many of the underlying layers that are contained within your own merkaba of light, you each became like a veritable troupe of time acrobats, all contained within that single bubble of existence that carries your signature.

We know that this will be more than a little bewildering for most of you, but let us simply say that as you became ONE by stepping into the New, you also split into a myriad of parts that individually will continue to carry out the work that was set into motion by that one single YES you gave not only to yourself but to All of creation. You see, you are indeed more than just the forerunners, you can also be likened to the special forces, beings capable of carrying out a wide range of tasks that crosses over any and all borders of abilities, and unlike the rest of creation, you can do so while currently being housed within the confines of that seemingly frail human body. Not only that, your ability to split into a myriad different compounds at the blink of an eye can only be explained by diving into the field of fractals, and yes, we do mean that in a very literal way. And so, we do think that a large number of you are already beginning to understand in what direction we are trying to direct your focus. For even if many of you still will struggle just trying to take in the magnitude of what has taken place energetically over the last two weeks, we know that there are some amongst you who have already started to literally tap into this never ceasing source of numerical information that you can now access and that is housed just within your own energetic field. For as that door to the New was opened and you gave yourself permission to access it, you also gave yourself permission to access the totality of your being. And as you did just that, it began to not only unfold, but to multiply in a way that can be likened to the sequence of a fractal equation. In others words, your field of influence and your field of intercommunication started to come alive in such a way, it will actually continue to unfurl itself in ALL dimensions, and before you get lost in this billowing sail of seemingly impenetrable information that we share with you now, know that you are more than capable of not only accessing, but also in controlling this formidable source of information. For you are old hands at this, remember, you were chosen for this very task because you are the true experts in this combination of linear and sequential computations that in turn gives birth to a very fluid movement of energies, one that is capable of penetrating every single barrier of time that has ever existed.

Again, we speak in convoluted terms, but the significance of what we are sharing with you is simply this: you have accessed your “mainframe” to use a word that will perhaps help to explain the force field we speak of, and through accessing this, you will be able to re-compute the underlying algorithms that control the timelines in your area in such a way, you will be able to literally figure out how to reset them all in such a way, the past, present and future will become one single fluid sphere of interconnected information. And when that system is fully set, you will no longer have to contend with any of the old programming that still clogs up some of that interstellar space that you inhabit. In other words, you are not only Masters of Love, you are also Masters of Time, in ways that will be hard to fathom in that single dimensional layer of your being, but that will start to seep into the other and far more advanced layers of your consciousness at an ever faster rate. And when this begins to permeate your being more and more, even those human parts of you will begin to truly take this into the equation. Again, we like to play around with the words, not to add to the confusion but simply to allow the deeper parts of your consciousness to begin to fall into place so that it in turn can begin to focus more on the tasks ahead. For they are indeed many, and they are in their very nature so complex, you have little or no ability to truly to understand them at your current level of capacity. But as we have already told you, the motion that was set into motion just a short while ago will continue to increase not only in speed but also in magnitude, and so, what was incomprehensible just a short while ago will begin to be not just understandable, but also doable in every sense of the word.

For you have come to the stage where what you do will literally help to change not just your world, but so much more of this vast interconnected fabric that constitutes All of creation, and in that sense, you are indeed Masters of the Universe. And before you begin to think that these words carry within them some rather ominous echoes from the past, let us simply remind you that when we say Masters, we allude to the fact that you are at heart nothing but light, and through your many sojourns here on planet Earth, you have finally stepped into your true roles as Masters of Love, and it is through this capacity that you now can begin that last and most impressive part of your assignment: to recreate the fabric of the universe through your willingness to let this newly acquired expertise of love permeate ALL that you come into contact with, and through that, setting off the vibrations that will bring everything else into tune.

It may sound like a task too large to fulfill for anyone, let alone a group of human beings recently arriving within their own self-created space of harmonics, yet, it is nothing less than what you are about to embark upon, and there is no one in All of creation that have any doubts at all as to your abilities to succeed at this. For in this, nothing has been left to chance so we will simply remind you of this: what is to come has already come to pass, but in order for it to truly become, you must take all the necessary steps that have been set up for it to come into being. And for that, we could not have picked anyone better suited than that glorious group of souls that have come together on this little sphere of light that you call Earth, but that the rest of us simply refer to as genesis 2:0.

---

430

For now, what has been set into motion can no longer be negated, and as such, all of the consequent reactions will come about from a positive energetic charge, even if some of the outcome of it may be labelled as negative by those still set on maintaining status quo.

Let us elaborate. You see, this whole chain of events that is now in the middle of being activated is one that will have far reaching consequences, and as we have already informed you, the rippling effect from what is taking place on this little planet of yours is far greater than you at your current level perhaps can even begin to understand. And when we say current level, we simply refer to your ability to fully tap into your very own reservoir of inherent knowledge. In other words, we are not calling you incapable in any way, simply reminding you that things will become clearer to you at a pace that will make it possible for you to literally digest it. For when we refer to mankind's choice to truly take the required quantum leap that is absolutely necessary for this whole operation to come about, it is also implied that this quantum leap will come about in such a way, it will serve its intended purpose, namely to shift the entire region into a frequency that will be beneficial to all that inhabits it. And so, everything needs to come about at the exact right time frame and in the stipulated sequence so that all the chips may fall in their designated directions.

Again, we speak in convoluted terms, but again, it is simply to allow you to better take in the underlying message in this message. For as we have already repeated repeatedly, what this contains is something that far surpasses the mere wording of it, and as such, we need at times to make these rather circuitous routes in order to better help you to get the gist of the message. And the gist of this message is simply this: you are no longer where you used to be, and neither is this planet that you live upon. And the same goes for your immediate surroundings. For you have already changed the very fabric of the Universe to such a degree, nothing can ever be the same again. And remember, these changes come about in a way that will be hard to define from a human's standpoint, but it will be very easily identified when you look upon it from our point of view. For we can see that the very basics that your world has been build upon has already been changed, and so, the algorithms are indeed brand new. On the outside, it may not look like much, merely a few scattered numerals that have shifted ever so slightly over a period of a few days, but what these slight changes will in effect do, is to set off a cascade of rippling effects that will tear away all of the old and restricting cocooning material that you have been swaddled in, almost like the ancient peoples used to do to safeguard their deceased.

In other words, the ripples will spread out from these minuscule gashes in that old fabric, the fabric that was woven with so much care in order for you to strain and struggle against it until the day you finally opened your eyes and opened your hearts and realized, that the only way to end the struggle is simply to surrender to the powers that you carry within you, the ones that have been there all along, waiting for you to rediscover their presence at the very core of your being. And then, this process of unraveling the old illusion in order to fully set free not just you, but the whole and glorious truth of who ALL of you are began to come alive in such a way, there is no way now anyone can stop this old cocoon from dissolving completely.

But again, when something dissolves, it inevitably leaves a gaping hole in someone's armour, as in the walls that so many of your fellow men are still busy keeping intact. For not all are ready to face the reality after living lifetime after lifetime enshrouded in a wall of make believe, and so, to them, there will be much anguish, pain and indeed anger erupting within. For with this new clarity also comes a new insight, and that is that you are no longer beholden onto others to make your life a good life. But with this realization also comes another realization, namely that you can no longer blame your misfortunes on anyone else either. And for some, that realization will perhaps to them be perceived as the heaviest burden to bear. For with freedom also comes responsibility, and this is not as easy to embrace as the idea of freedom. For freedom means that you are once again aware of creating your own lives, and so, there is no longer any outside source that can or will be blamed for any perceived "misfortunes" that may befall you along the way.

We know that this will not be news to many of you, for you have stepped into this truth a long time ago, but again, we want to remind you that you are not yet amongst the majority on this planet, and so, what you have seen as the dawning of the New, they will simply see as the disintegration of all that they have staked their very existence upon, and so, they will rebel in any way they can, and the range with which they will display their dissent will vary, from anger to sadness, from fear to downright terror.

But again, this will simply be the final nail in the coffin of the old, if we may use such blunt words to describe the shift that is taking place now. For remember, you have already pushed the buttons that activated this whole operation by your willingness to fully embrace your inner light, and so, what comes around now will be a change that will affect all, and it will do so because you as a collective have come to a place where a decision was needed, and the decision was to say a resounding YES to the New. And so, the wheels of change will roll faster and faster now, and as such, more and more of your every day actions will be governed by this new light that is imbuing every sentient being on this planet.

And yes, enough of you have already chosen to open your hearts to this light, and this in itself is more than enough to set the wheels rolling. And so, what took only a small number of the population of this planet to make come into being, will give every single one of the souls currently inhabiting this little sphere the same chance to take part in the process of recreating your world. And so, the call has gone out, the call to join in on this magnificent make over, a make over that far surpasses anything ever accomplished anywhere else in All of creation. And make no mistake, you do have a lot of things that needs to be rectified before this whole project is over, but again, there will be no lack of willing hands nor of inquisitive minds that will join forces with you, the true vanguards. For as we have told you again and again, you already possess everything you need in order to fulfill every single dream you might carry within of the paradise you so long for. There is no lack of skills, nor of manpower, nor of resources, and as you have finally allowed yourselves to re-enter the ancient halls of knowledge that has been kept safely hidden away until you as a collective were once again ready to enter them, there is no longer anything nor anyone standing in your way for this whole thing to become a success beyond compare.

And so we say again know that all is well, and take every single eruption of fear, anger or hatred as clear signals of the advent of the New World. For you have felt it already, and now, it will begin to seep into the consciousness of every single individual on this planet. For some, it will be such a welcome sight, they will instantaneously know just what to do in order to fully embrace the New. While for others, the very idea will still provoke their old gut instinct to safeguard the very last piece of "security" they can cling on to, namely the very idea itself that change must be avoided at all cost. And so, they will dig in their heels and protest in any way they can. But we can confidently predict that the latter will be the minority this time, for remember, on a higher level, it has been a decision that was made with an overwhelming majority, and the answer you gave back when the question was raised, was simply this: “yes, now, we are finally ready to step away from the old and fully embrace the totality of our being and to re-enter the prosperous sea of love that we for so long have turned our backs to.” For you as a collective are more than ready to take to these shimmering waters yet again, and it is you, the forerunners, who have been given the wonderful task of being the first ones to take the plunge.

And so once again we thank you all on behalf of All of creation. You have chosen well, and you have already set your actions behind your words, and the actions that have already been accomplished by what may seem to be only a small handful of individuals scattered all over your world, will have a far reaching and wondrous effect on All. And for that, we can only once more extend our greatest gratitude, and we would also like to add that from now on, the pace of this ripping apart will continue to escalate at such a pace, it may at times literally take your breath away. But for you, we know the breathlessness will come out of pure and simple joy and the knowledge that what will come apart now, will do so in order to make it all come together again in a way that will bring joy into the hearts of ALL.

---